COMMENDS SCHOOL

A letter to High School Principal V. M. Evans from the School Lunch Division of the State Department of Education received last week said,

"We are glad to inform you that at the time of the visit your operation was believed to be far above the average in management ... You are to be commended for having such an efficient staff and in general a well-organized program. Such an achievement can be attained only through interest and concentrated effort for continued education in the field of school food service."

The inspection of the school cafeteria was made by Mrs. Marguerite McFall, Administrative Reviewer."

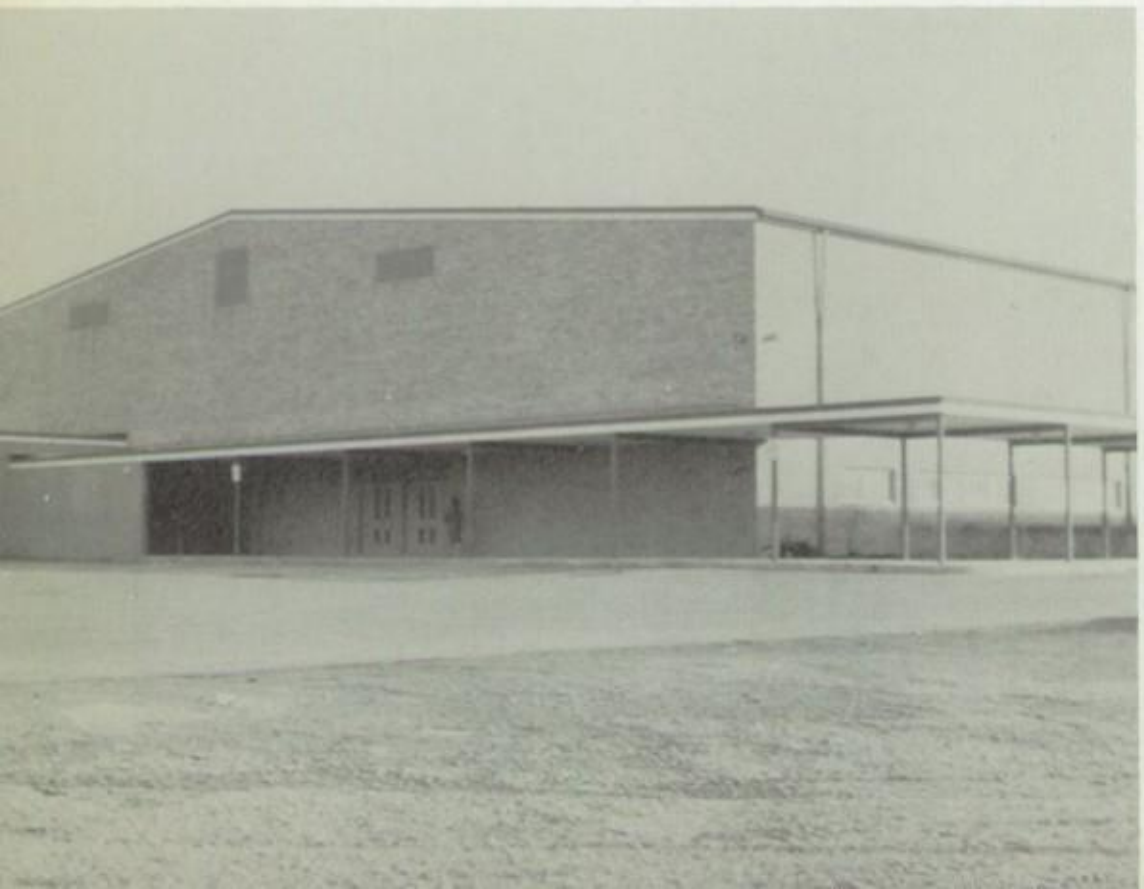
The Most Memorable



Year Yet!

From the minute we enroll as freshmen to the minute we receive our diplomas, our days are filled to the fullest with themes, home projects, term papers, dance committees, and class meetings. But, we also have many fun-filled days which include football and basketball games, track meets, and dances. These all add up to A.M.H.S. life.

For many of us time goes much too quickly and before we realize it, it's our senior year—the year we graduate and receive our diplomas, the year we all enter into a new phase of life.

We remember our problems, the laughs we shared, the people we knew and the activities we all attended. Soon all these happy thoughts fade from our minds as realities into memories, but we will always cherish this year as the most memorable year yet.

A Man...

John Fitzgerald Kennedy

...A Leader

The steady beat of the muffled drums—
They were saddened men who played those drums
Dignitaries from far and wide—
They sat by Mrs. Kennedy's side.

People murmured, people cried,
As the casket of their leader went by, people sighed
Was this an American so noble and free
Who did this to thee Mr. Kennedy?

His ride, yes, his last living ride
With his beautiful wife right by his side
He was seen his brow to tap
Then next he fell into her lap!

He was rushed to the hospital next they say
While millions of people began to pray
Then a spokesman for the President said:
"Ladies and Gentlemen, the President is dead."

Today and the months that follow are a time of recovery and recollection. The recalling of memories and experiences of a great man, is an endless thing, history books will remind us forever of the strength generated by John Kennedy in his quest for world peace and human dignity. Though there were many who challenged his methods, there was none who could honestly, doubt his motives and his dedication.

Tragedy is no stranger to our nation nor to its leaders. Each tragedy, at the moment of its occurence, appears the greatest and the most unsurmountable. But each has been met and mastered. This is the strength that John F. Kennedy summarized; this is the "stuff" that America is made of.

To the memory of President Kennedy, we will build monuments to withstand the storms of time and trouble and remain forever as a testimony to his greatness and the regard in which he was held by those he served.

A leader, regardless of party, is a great leader only if his leadership is perpetuated by his successors and those who served under him. If we fail, John F. Kennedy failed, if we succeed, it was because John Kennedy gave us the will and the inspiration to succeed.

If the President's death is to serve any useful purpose to the world, it must be to point the way, clearly and distinctly, to the things that we can—and must do for our country.

Let the sorrow and mourning continue lest we forget the terrible sacrifice made by our President. But pray also that his blood will gather with the tears of all who mourn him to create a new stream for an even greater and stronger America. If we can do this then John Fitzgerald Kennedy did not die in vain.

Yesterday, the Beginning of Vacation,

It is evident that these students are eagerly anticipating the day ahead.

Another summer morning and, for the most part, all high school students got up a little earlier than usual. September and school had started, and although it was just the beginning of another day late in the summer, fall had begun for us.

The student body assembled, as usual, in the gym for instructions on schedules and class organization. During the following week lockers, books, and fees were taken care of and hundreds of questions were answered. Students became acquainted with new faculty members, and assignments and tests became a part of the regular routine.

The end of another summer and the beginning of the first six weeks was upon us.

Susan Plackard hurries to put herself in order before going to class.

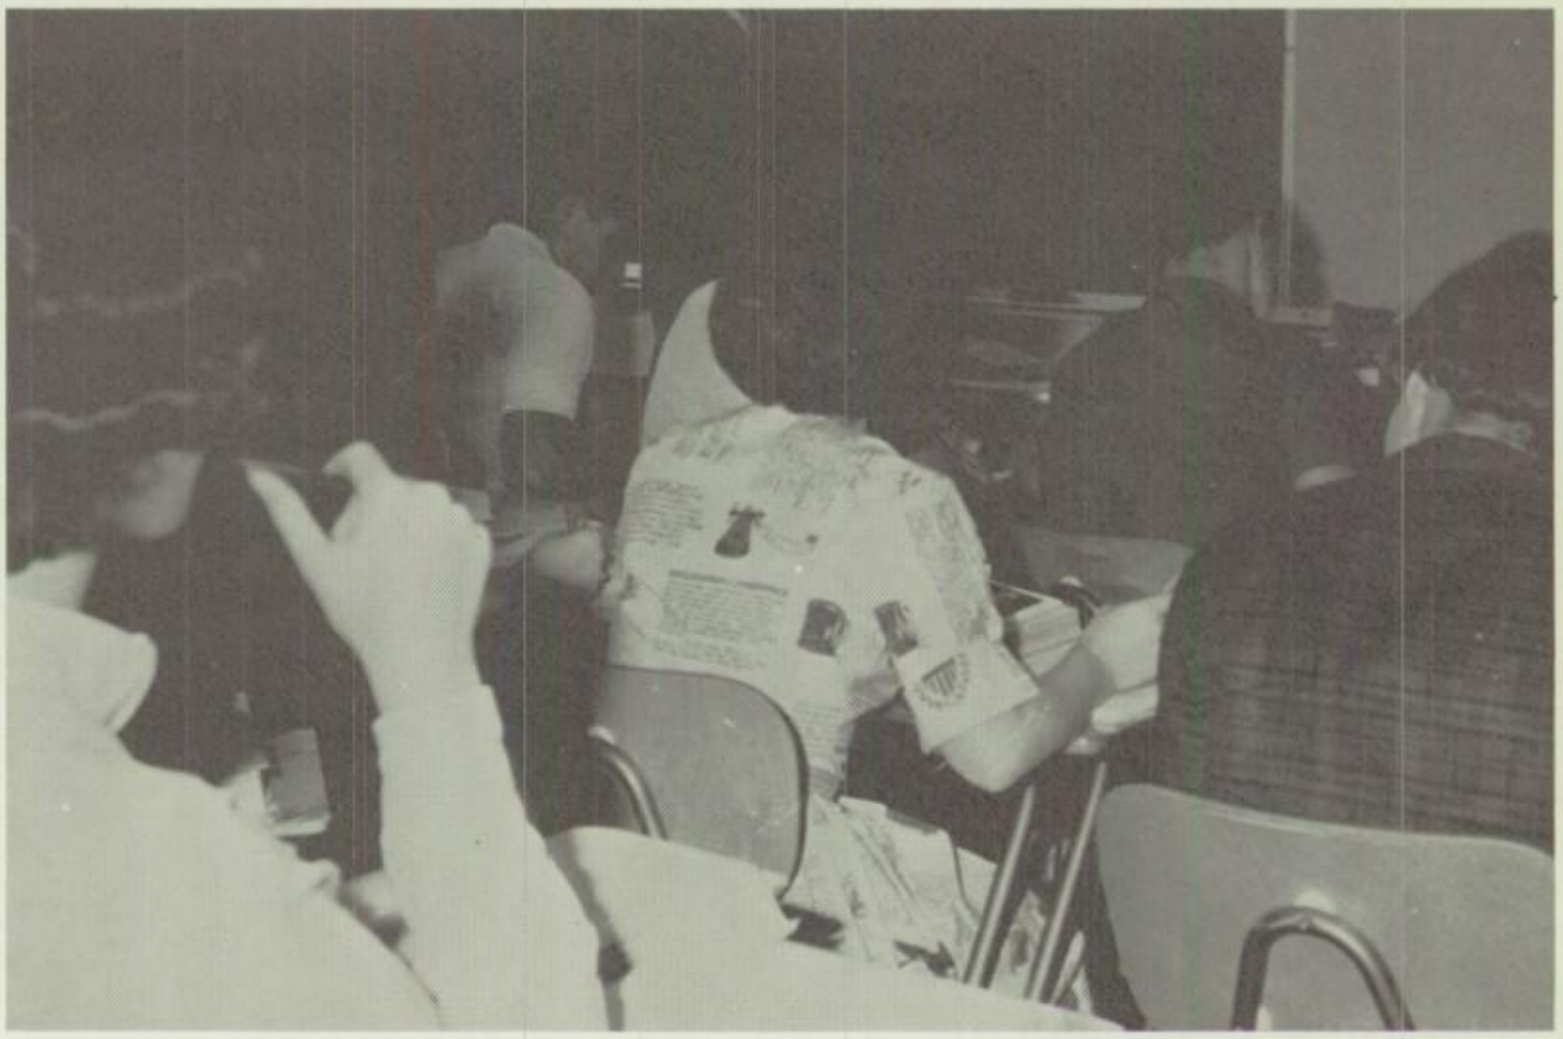
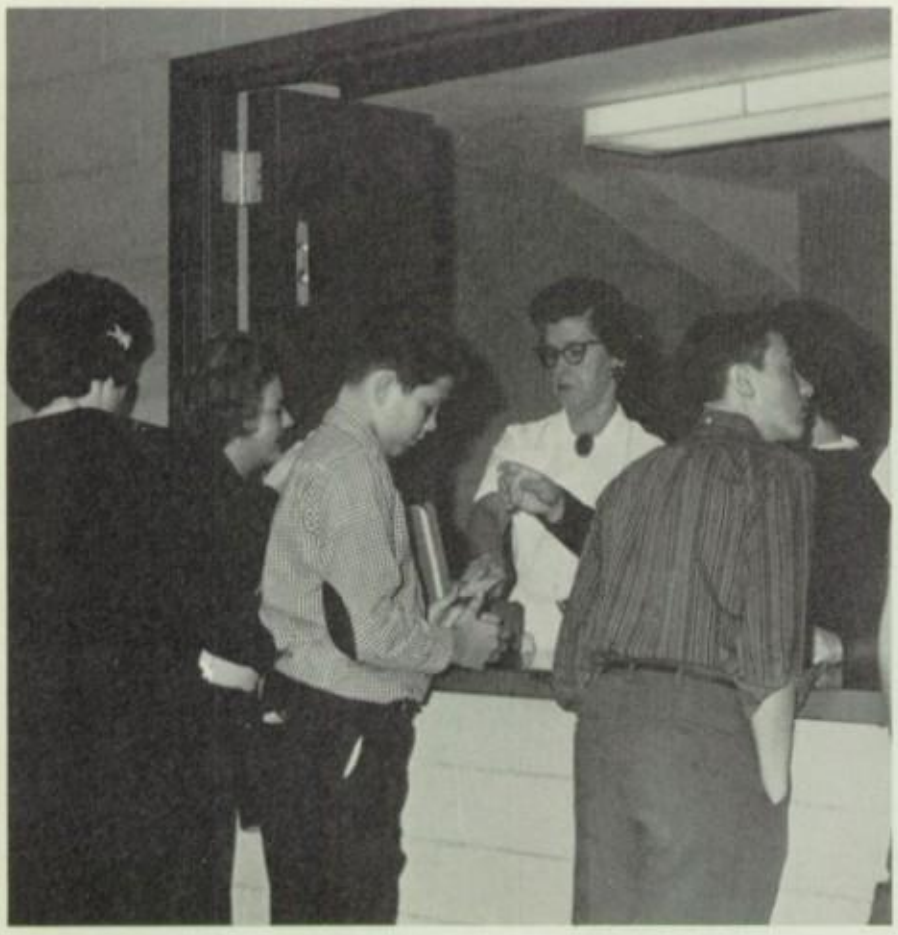
Today the Beginning of a School Year



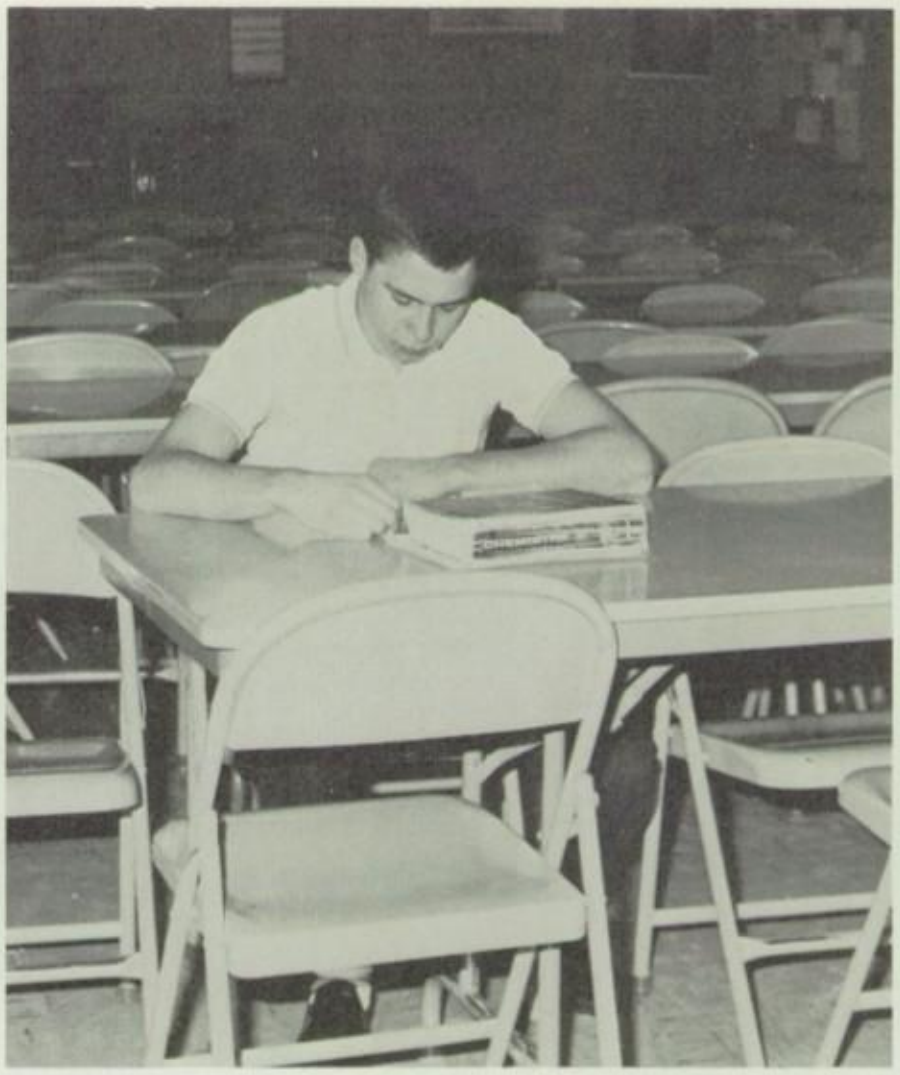
This history class settles down to learn some of most important men of our times.

this was true?

Miss French, our guidance counselor, is always willing to help any student needing advice and assistance.



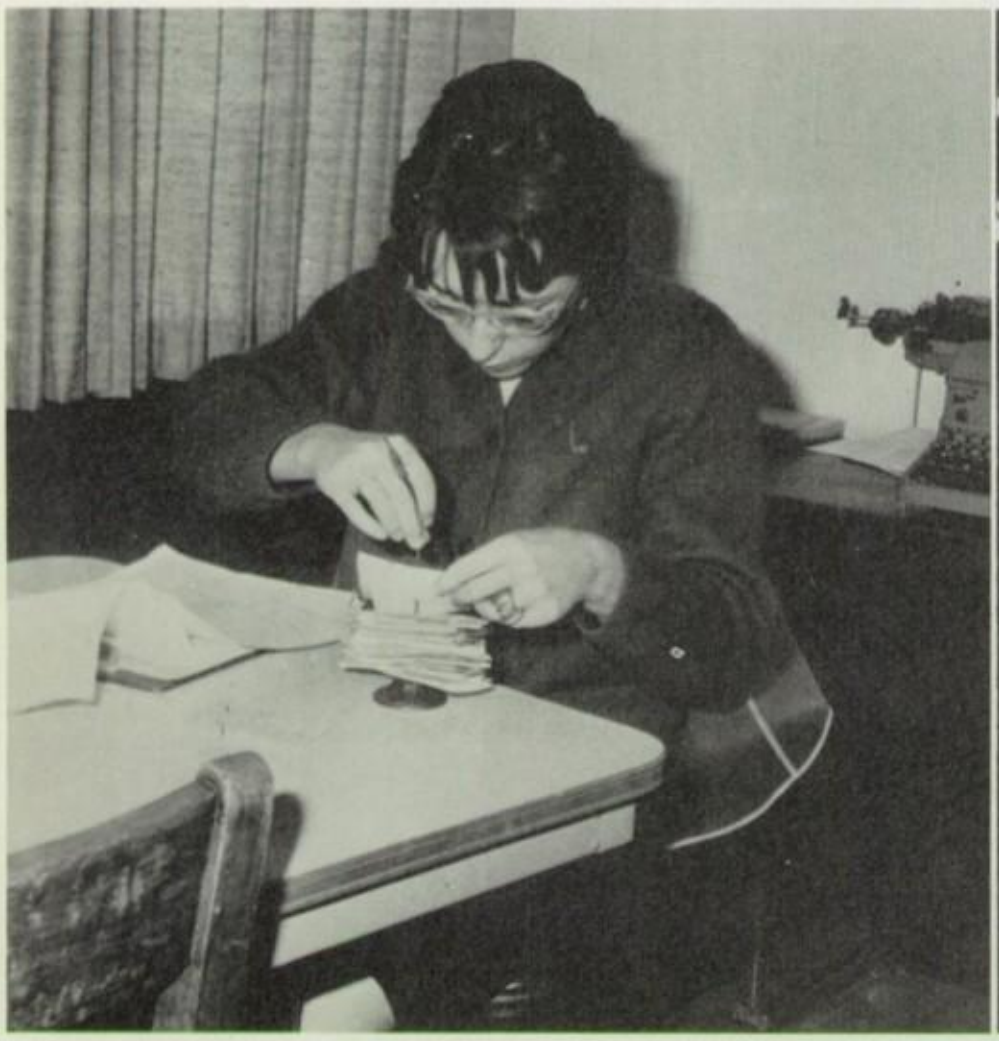
Students rush to the bookstore each morning to make sure they buy their lunch ticket.



Lee Jolliff finds those few minutes before the first bell very valuable for studying chemistry.

Morning, Noon, and Night We Are

Every day Lynn Paddock has the job of recording all absentees.



The twirlers still find themselves in the hall after the bell rings.

Rev. Dwight McCurdy, is one of the local ministers who spoke at our monthly convocations.

Study hall proves valuable to those students who have a lot of homework.

Employed in a 24-Hr. Day of Learning

In all sorts of weather, whether we like it or not, there is another day of education ahead of us. Some face it with persecution, some with grandeur, and some just face it. Students rush to buy lunch tickets and school supplies, obtain absent slips, and have a quick chat with friends before the 8:10 bell. Thus the day gets its start.

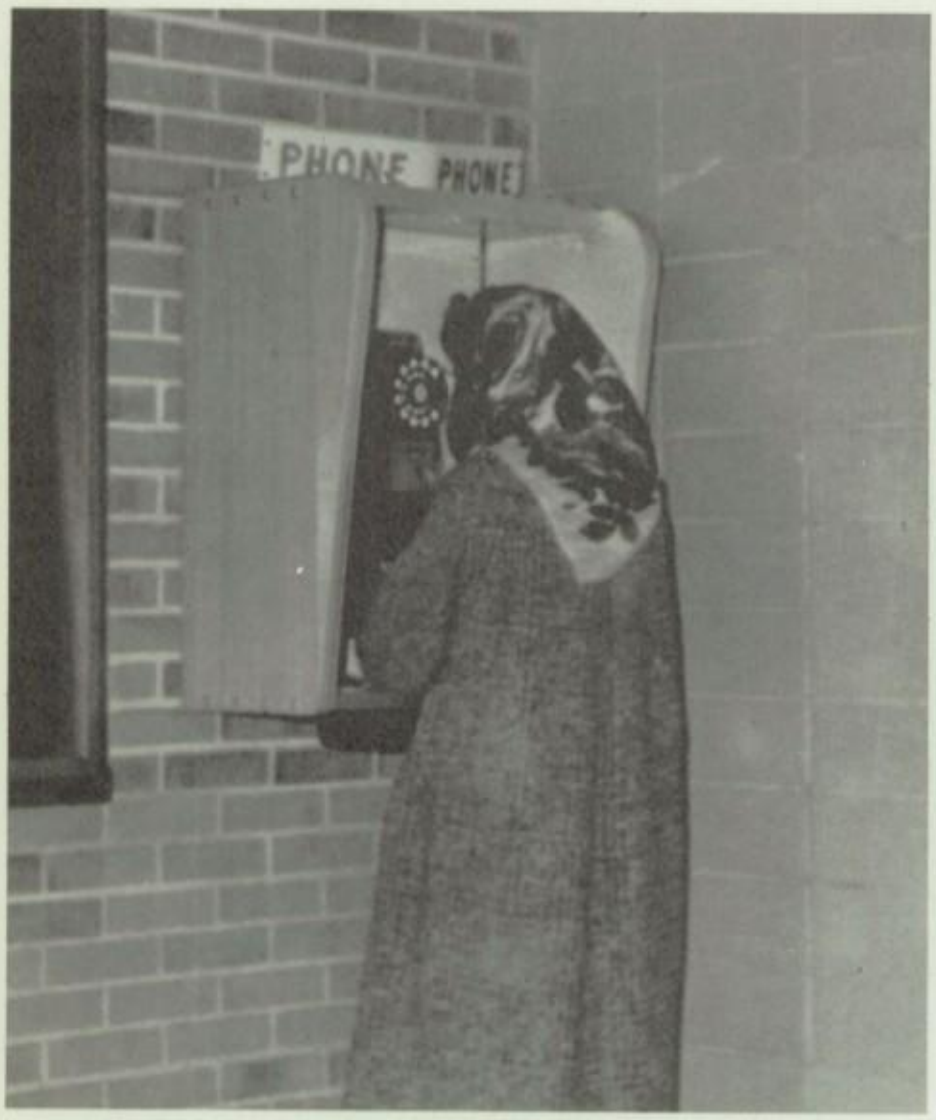
By the time the first break rings out, everyone has more or less settled down to serious thought.

Regular convocations instilled in our minds the privilege that is ours, and gave us renewed faith and hope that is so urgently needed as we prepare for the world we will run tomorrow.

Third period arrived with the reading of announcements, and next to sixth period it was the longest—when were we ever going to eat?

Mr. Evans started third period off with the daily announcements.

Enjoyment of Antics and Amusements



The telephone proves to be an indispensable aid even during the noon hour.

The lunch line is long and the place is packed with kids who have been waiting since last night's supper for food.

The bookstore is a business in itself at noontime as students crowd in to say, "Pepsi, please."

The first half of the day ended, and all who were starved rushed to the lunch line. At last there was time to relax and freshen up. Noon leagues formed their teams for half of an hour of wholesome exercise while the girls danced, used the school phone, or got together to discuss the latest news, school or otherwise. Classes and clubs held their regular meetings and the library was always packed with students who needed the extra study. The teachers made a dash for the Teacher's Lounge—at least they had somewhere to run— or locked themselves in their rooms.

The bell rang and summoned everyone to their assigned duties. With three more classes to go, it presented a real challenge to those who had stayed up too late. But between determined concentration and casual day-dreaming, 3:00 p.m. rolled around before we realized it.

Fill Noon Activities and Free Time

Although the seven hours of each school day were quite enough for studying, most students found that it was really to their advantage to use their extra time in the library.

Noon leagues provided a release from the morning routine and stirred up plenty of excitement among the players.

Frank Davis puts in his order for senior pictures to the local photographer, David Steele.

Students fill the gym as they gather for pep sessions and programs.

Our Extensive Evening Activities

Janet Thurston and Nina Heartbarger are only a couple of the hungry A.M.H.S. students who hurried to the bakery after school.

Reb Gooding and Jane Hilligoss remained after 3 o'clock to practice long and hard for the music contest in February.

At 3:05 p.m. cars, kids, and busses cleared the halls and parking lot of A.M.H.S. Still, the school buzzed with activity as many students stayed after or returned later for basketball, contest or play practice.

The Bakery was a favorite place to stop for an after-school snack with the gang, and the town library was the source of consultation for reference material.

After-school jobs kept many students busy along with every evening's homework. Yet, with exams, and essays, term papers, and book reports, and extra-curricular activities, we found time to enjoy a coke, have a date, and see a ball game.

Spectrum staff members worked late identifying and cutting underclass pictures.

Spark Our School Life With Variety

Charles Ellis and Don Crull run through their lines for the first Junior class play ever presented.

Many students found themselves attending banquets and club initiations at the beginning of the school year.

Homecoming Sparked by

Mrs. Millican regards the work accomplished on the Senior float as being very satisfactory.

The queen candidates awaited the magnificent moment that would place the crown upon one of them.

The climax has arrived—I crown you Queen Jeanne.

Overwhelming School Spirit

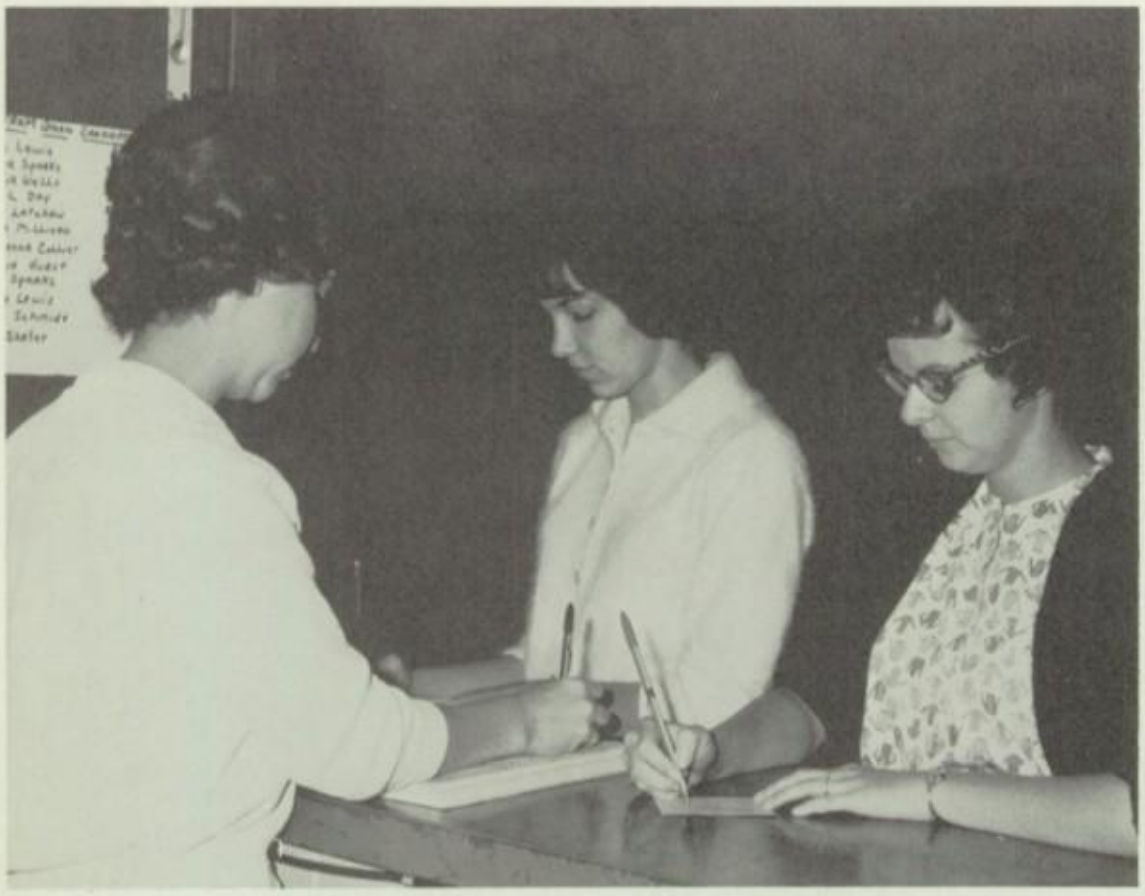
The 1963 Homecoming parade and dance proved to be the "Best Yet" that the students of A.M.H.S. have seen in the history of the new school. The theme of "Oriental Romance" was creatively carried out by the seniors in the decoration of their float. The four lovely queen candidates lent their charm to the float, and each girl looked like a true queen in her own right.

The band and the majorettes gave a colorful half-time performance, and each underclass princess rode in her car in a procession around the track. Then came the senior float—the crowd fell silent as it awaited the exciting moment, and everyone cheered as Jeanne Schweitzer was crowned our 1963 Homecoming Queen.

During the evening the queen, surrounded by her court, reigned over the festivities. As the evening drew to a close, we had much to be proud of—the Tigers had won a victory, we had a marvelous parade, a beautiful float, a colorful dance, and a stunning queen.

The smile of a queen belongs only to Jeanne as she reigns over Homecoming festivities.

The Royal Court: Senior Queen Candidates Cindy Jackley, Bonnie Eden, and Anna Marie Prieshoff, Queen Jeanne, Beth Schmidt, Freshmen Princess; Patsy Porter, Sophomore Princess; and Loretta Hosier, Junior Princess.

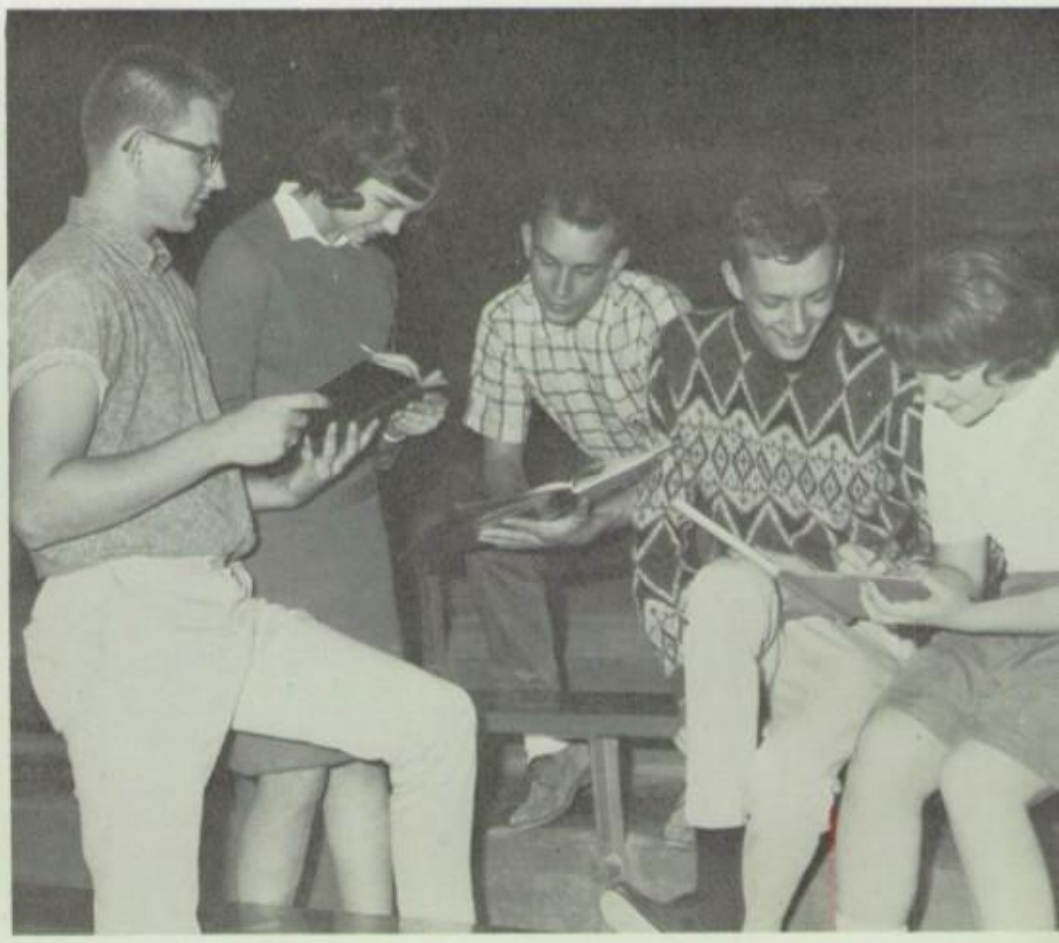


After checking the chart, Enola and Doris decide who they will vote for as Spectrum Queen.

Margie Sparks Reigns as Alexandria-

Oh my yes! These girls seem to be having a lovely time at the Yearbook Distributing Sock-Hop.

Students smile at crazy quips and quotations signed by their fellow classmates.



Monroe's First Yearbook Queen

This year, for the first time in the history of Alexandria, 12 lovely girls were nominated for the 1963-64 Yearbook queen, three from each class. Any student who had ordered a 1964 Spectrum was eligible to vote for the queen.

At the sock-hop, held for distribution of the yearbooks, the names of the queen and her court were announced.

Miss Margie Sparks, Senior, was crowned as the 1963-64 Spectrum Queen. She was attended by Judy Lewis, first runner-up, Marcia Hurst, second runner-up, and Cheryl Day, third runner-up. Margie was crowned by Terry Walker, president of the Senior class, and was presented a bouquet of roses by Sally Latchaw. Gloria Wright, editor of the Spectrum, gave Margie a bracelet to remind her always of her reign as Spectrum Queen.

Margie Sparks has been chosen as the 1963-64 Spectrum Queen.

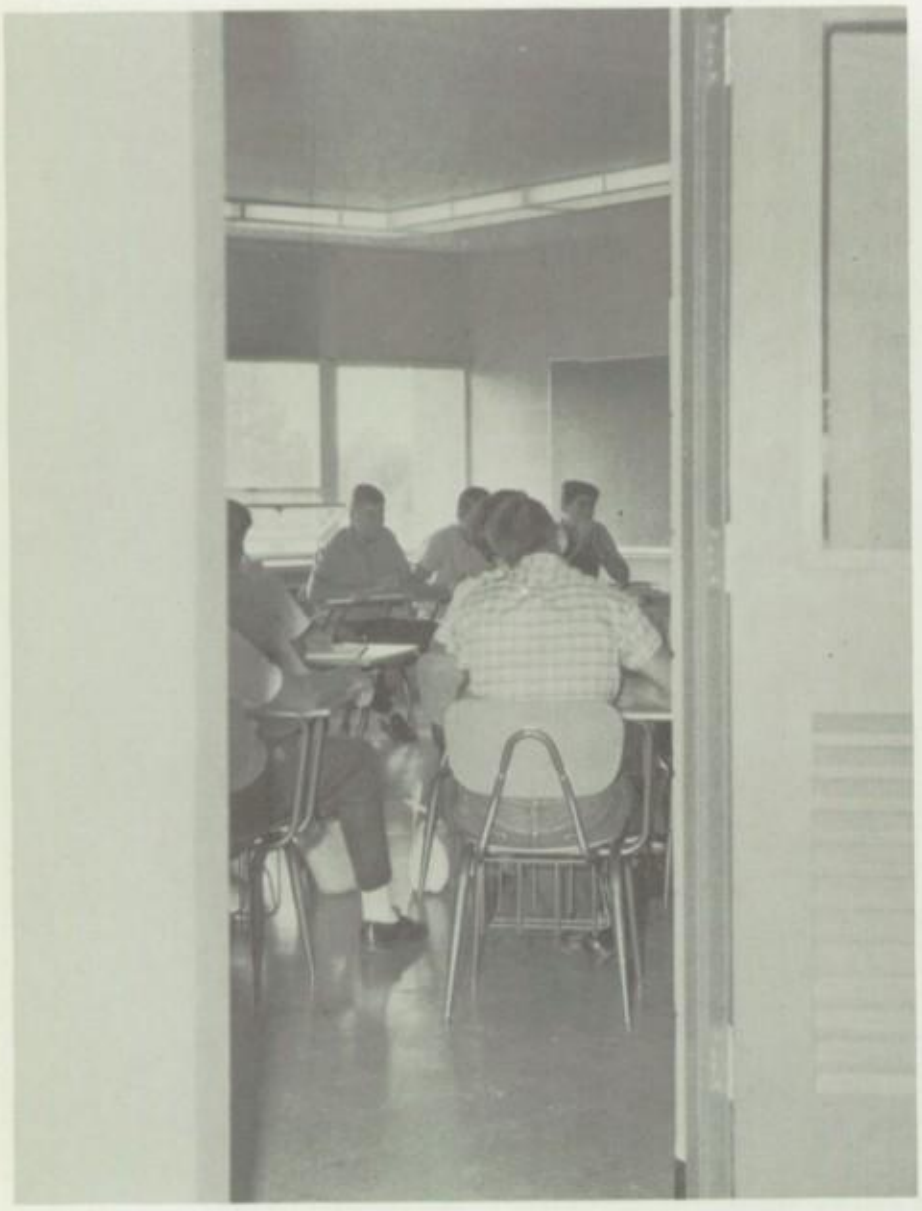
A.M.H.S. Furnishes a Well-Rounded



In another year this senior English composition class will be on the outside looking in.

Alexandria-Monroe High School has a well-rounded educational program for any student's taste or preference. The courses available afford each and every student the opportunity to receive a sound education. Studying and going to school is a vocation in itself for any student, only without pay on a cash basis. First, the student must want to learn so he will know; second, he must apply himself. All in all the student's attitude determines how much he will receive from his high school education, how much fun he will have, and how happily he will be able to look back on his high school days and experiences.

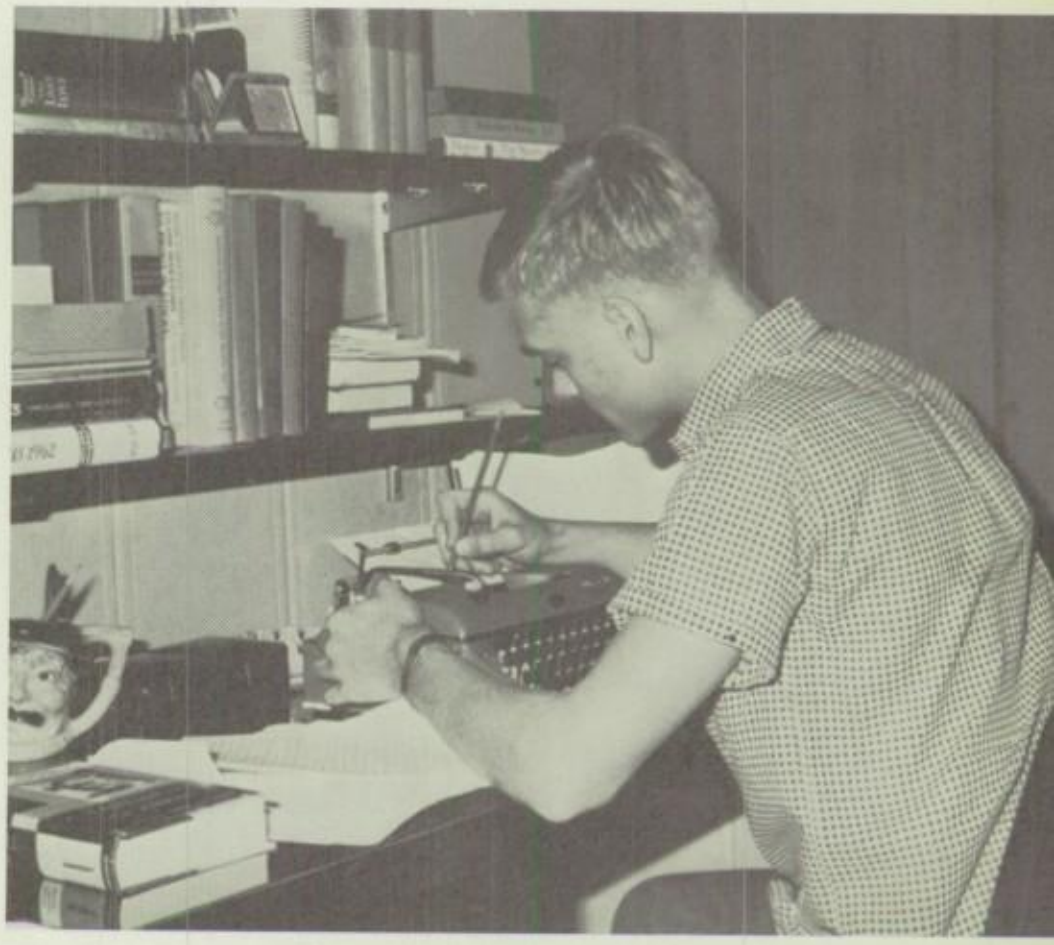
All of us will realize, much sooner and more fully than other generations before us, that our high school years taught us much and have given us a much more valuable reward.

This physics class explores an endless science of motion, currents, and waves.

Program With English at the Top

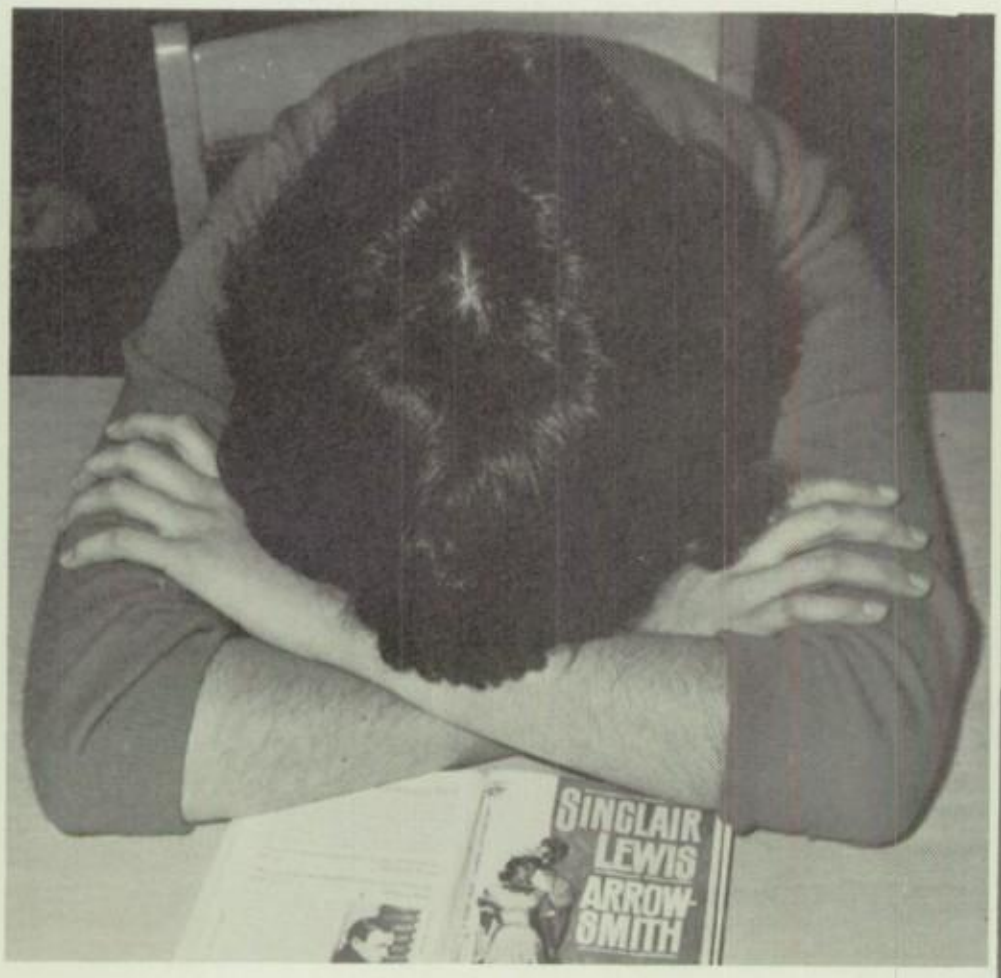
The English Department has definitely taken strides forward for improvement in the last two years. Novel reading, which includes many best sellers and classics, is something that every English teacher now requires. At the same time, more emphasis has been placed on the student's ability to write creatively, and he finds it easier to express his own views on a variety of social and moral problems. In this respect the students have become more aware of what others believe and, perhaps, a few minds have been more fully opened.

As students we need to bear in mind the value this instruction holds for those of us who will go to college. But whether our education is furthered or not, there is a great deal of satisfaction in reading a good book and a great advantage in expressing yourself on paper.



Terry Walker finishes typing the final draft for his term paper.

"Wake up Anna Mariel You'll never get ARROWSMITH read that way."



Judy Kern checks the library files for references she needs for her report.

Skip Maddox demonstrates his ability at playing charades in speech class.

English Develops Writers While

Journalism students scan the newspaper for important events and facts in preparation for their weekly test.

These first year English students review their grammar and get started on a year of novel reading.

The foreign language department consists of Latin and French. The French students of the first year learn the basic building blocks of the French language, verb structure, and simple conversation. In the second year, the students use their first year knowledge and move farther along with conversations and sentence structure. Also the students learn more about the country of France and its culture.

In first year Latin, the students develop facility in pronouncing Latin and develop good habits of language study. They also develop appreciation of the historical and cultural significance of Roman civilization. Second year students acquire skill in reading, comprehending and translating more advanced Latin.

Mrs. Mitchell is ready for the class' response in naming the uses of Latin gerunds.

Languages Form Understanding

Mrs. Gaither instructs second year students in better speaking ability and acquiring a wider vocabulary.

These second year Latin students learn more about ancient Roman culture through continued language study.

Bugs, Formulas, and Atoms Help Shape

Carmen Owens, Becky Schaffer, and Madelyn Snyder are painting the beautiful wall murial that now hangs in the chemistry lab.

As our growing frontier develops scientifically, we, as the next generation, must take advantage of any opportunities offered to us which can develop our scientific knowledge. Discovery becomes a key word to many young students who become interested in developing their intellectual abilities in the scientific field.

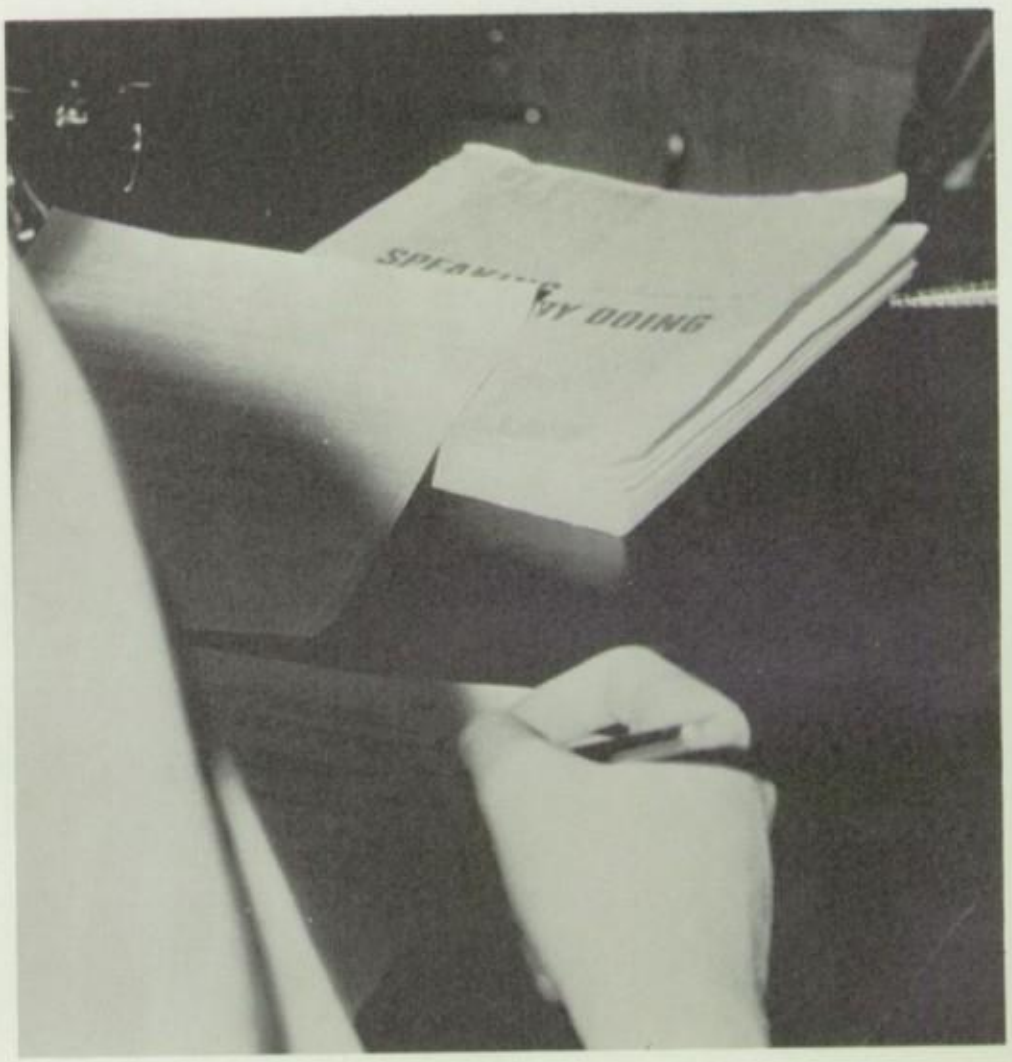
Whether it is mathematically, biologically, or physically, our science department does what it can to help lead a student in his objective. It is helping many students help themselves in making a decision which will produce future scientists.

Triangles, equations, formulas. Math is a very complex and sometimes frustrating field, but it is an integral part of our modern world.

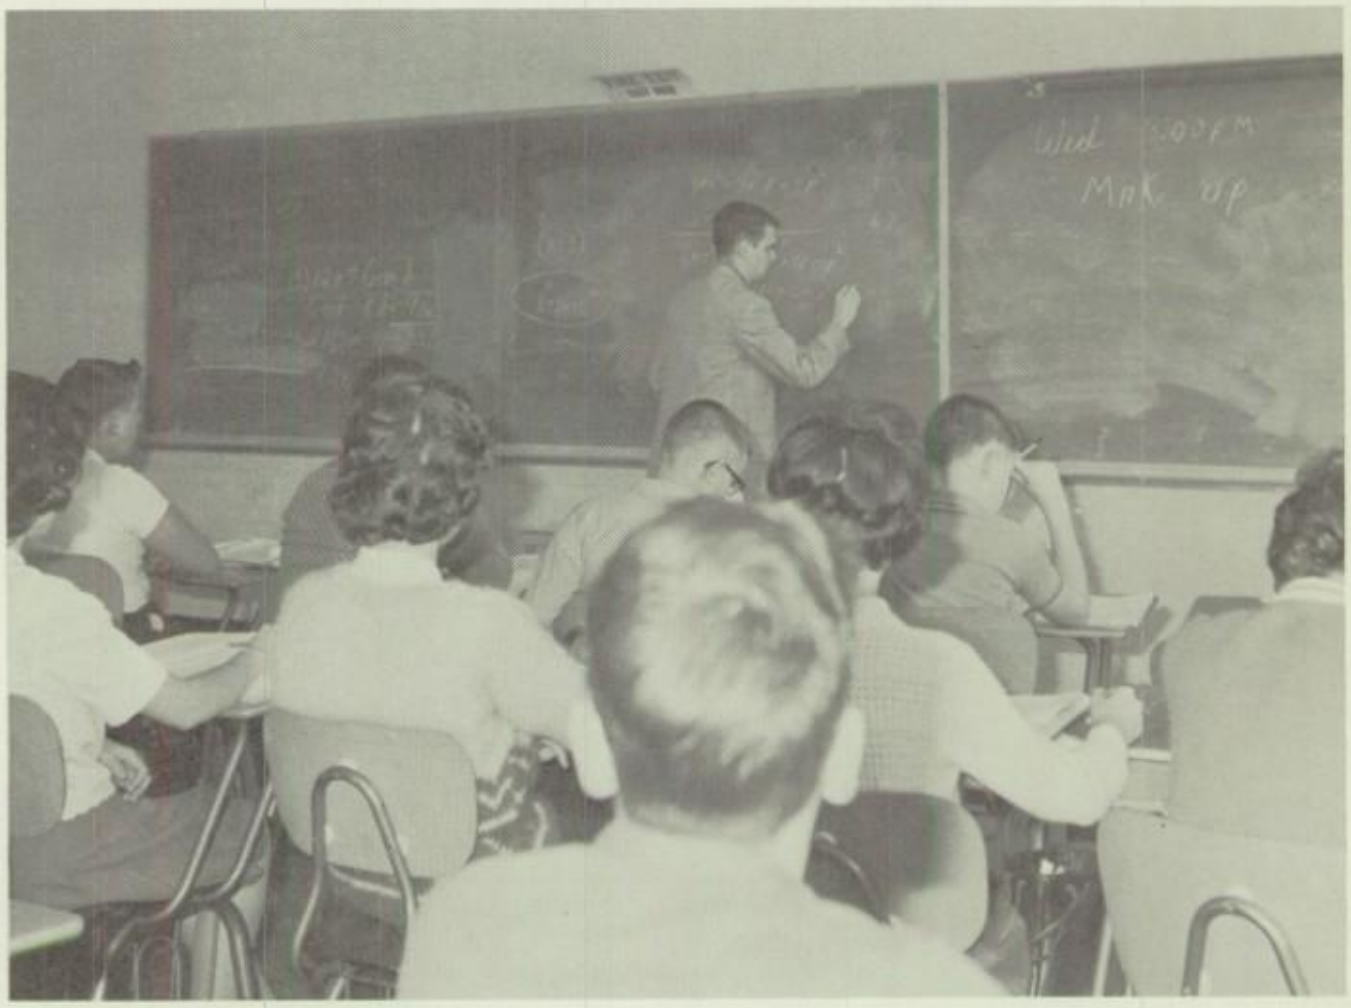
When the interested math student has completed his four-year preparatory study in high school, he will be ready for the higher math of college and apprentice courses.

Mr. Julian with the use of films explains the history of mathematics.

We hope this science student won't mind us looking over his shoulder while he's taking a test.

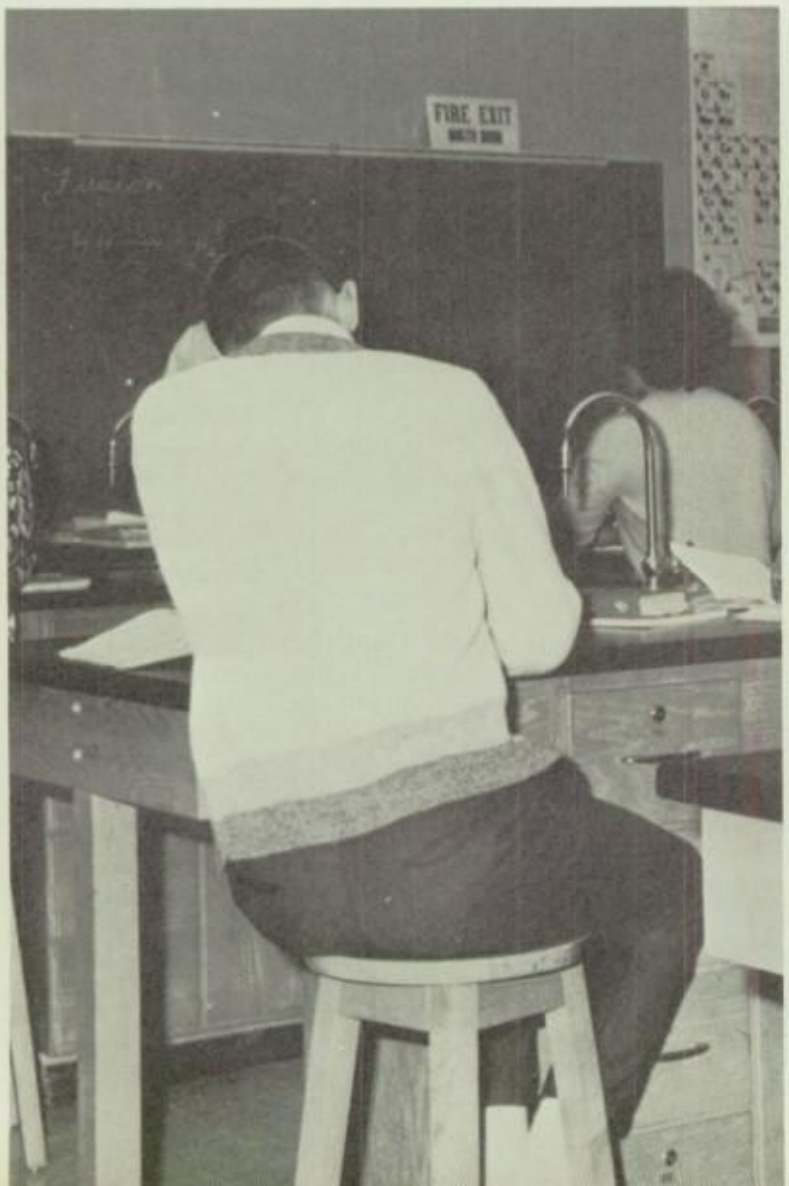


the Future of Our Country



Mr. Bloom thoroughly explains algebra equations to his freshmen students.

Tim Lockwood is fully absorbed in his physic problem.



Senior math students probe further into the field of mathematics.

"Hey, what did I do with that psychology paper?"

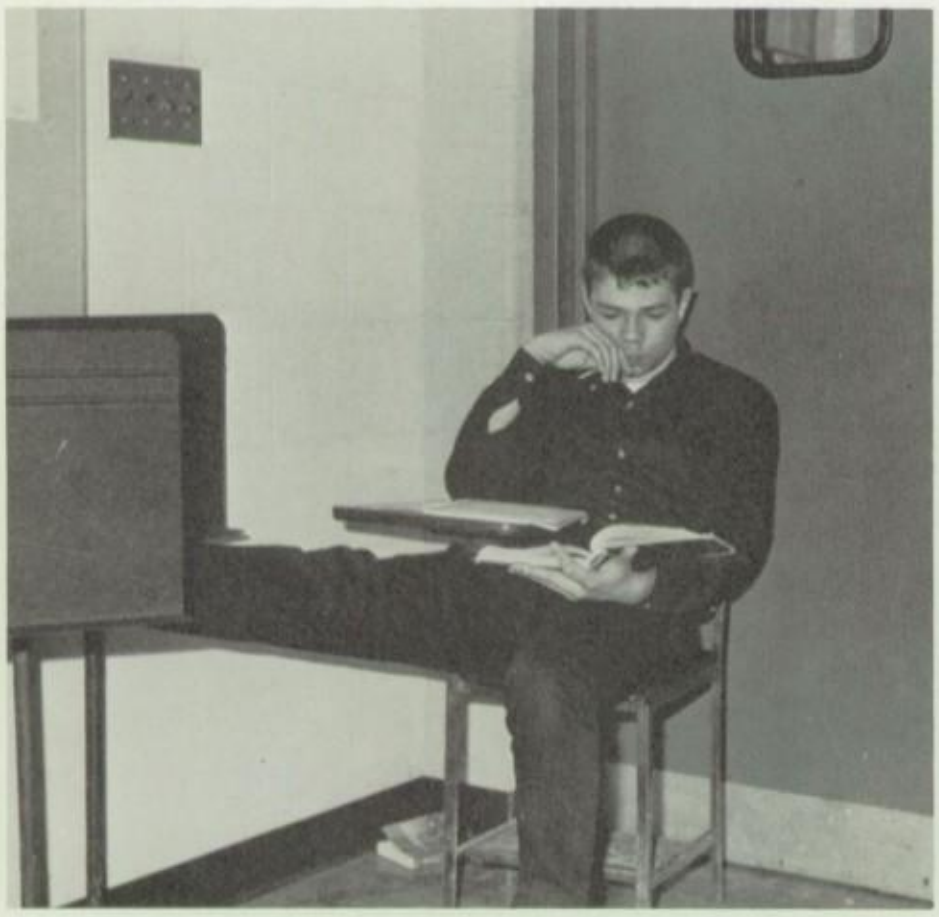
The social sciences include a wide range of subjects that bring to us all that we know about the very beginning on up to the present day. The world we live in today is actually small, and it becomes more so everyday so that now we reach out to the stars above and hesitantly venture into the fathomless depths of the age-old relic, the sea.

Yet, in studying the social sciences we look for the measureless human qualities of other people, with their customs and cultures. We take man and man-made strifes, put them together, and critically look at the issues we have created, with the hope of establishing peace and understanding.

Through these struggles we develop a sense of social responsibility to the needs and values of others, and we become determined to become better and more thoroughly informed citizens.

We Travel the Road of the Past

Graydon Jolliff can settle down to study history, now that he's in a comfortable position.



Richard Lawson explains the day's history lesson to Alan Lewi

Business Subjects for All Students

Bookkeeping classes learn some of the basic principles involved in keeping figures in order.

No matter what course a student decided to take in high school he will find that some business subjects are bound to appeal to him. Any student who has taken typing or bookkeeping has benefited from their practical value.

The business course is divided into the vocational and general courses. General business, academic and business typing, business math and law, shorthand, secretarial and clerical training, and bookkeeping head the list of the numerous subjects available for interested students. Academic students find that business subjects chosen as electives are especially valuable and helpful.

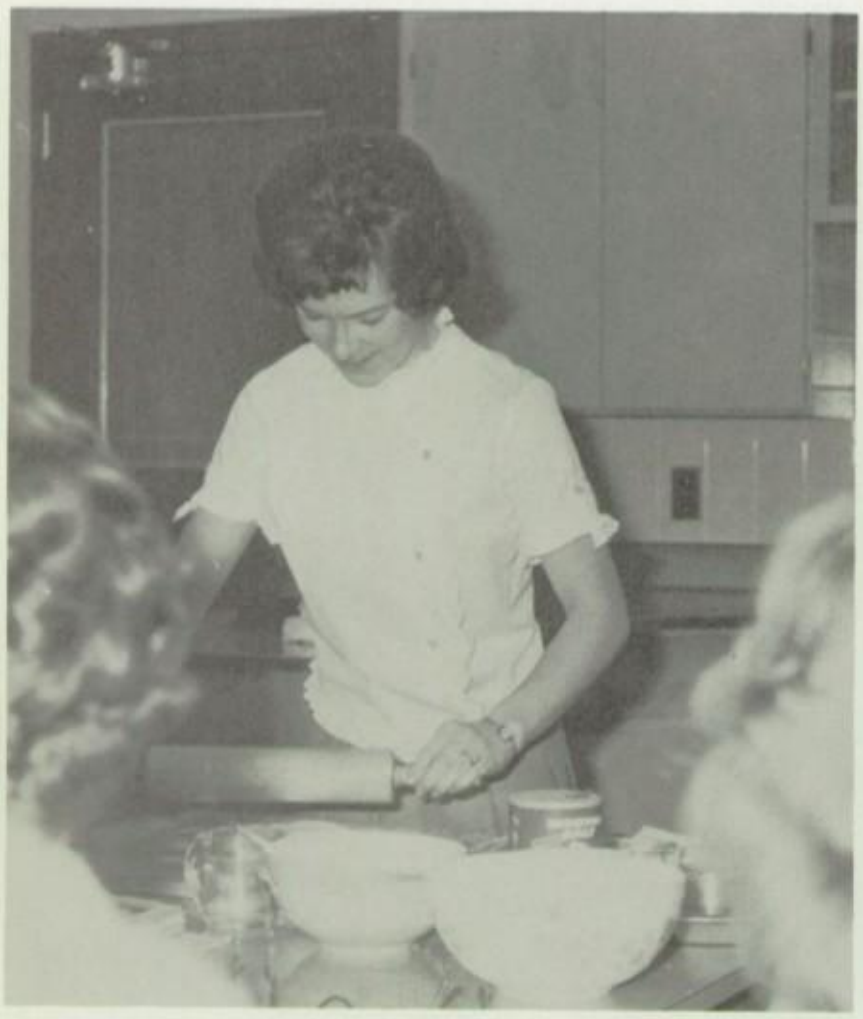
Behind our well-rounded business course is a staff of experienced teachers to whom we express our greatest appreciation.

Students in typing classes will always remember the timed writings which these students are taking.

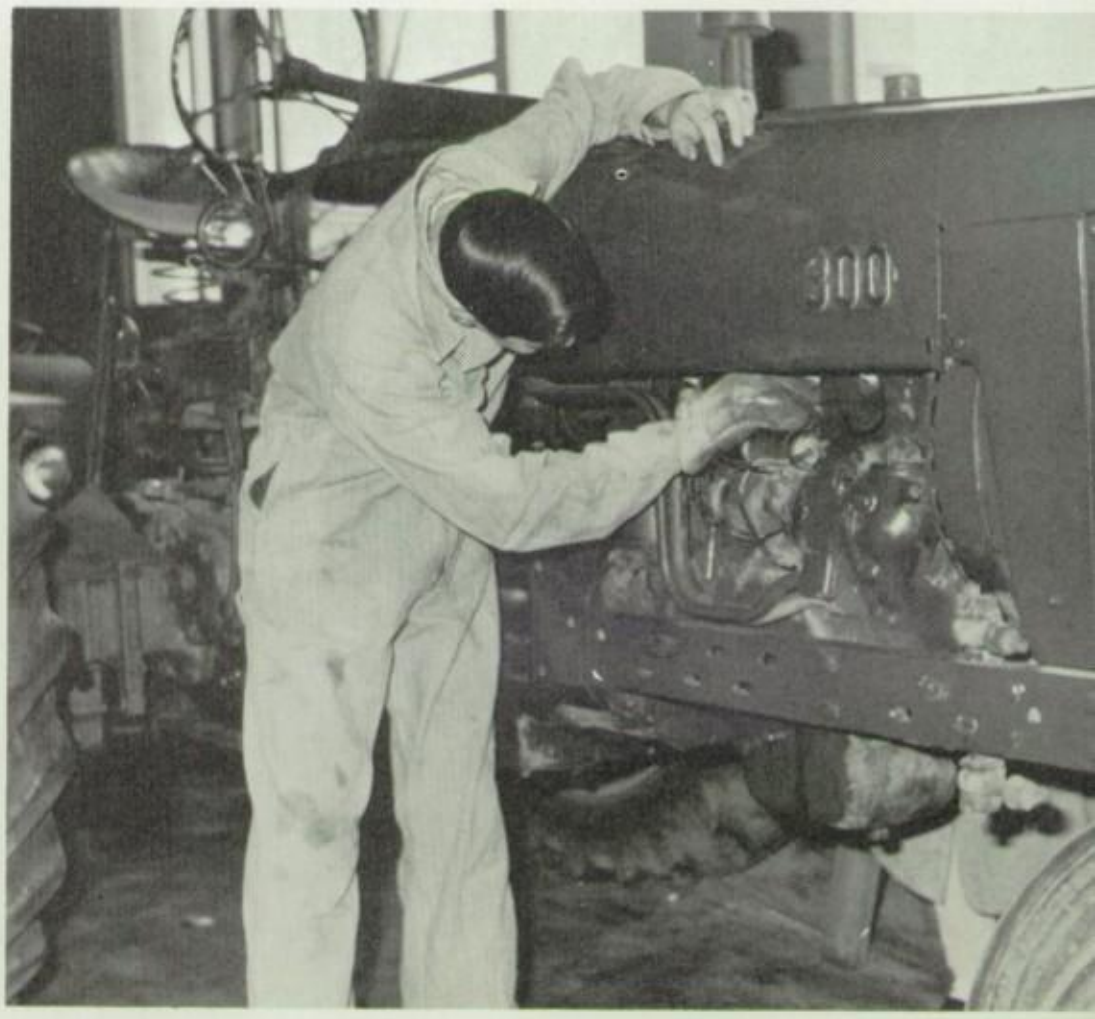
Vocational Subjects Provide Practical

Home Economics class is constantly busy learning basic sewing principles and improved methods.

Darlene Golden demonstrates how to roll out pie dough in the senior girls' home ec. class.



There's no better way to learn about the mechanics of a tractor than this.



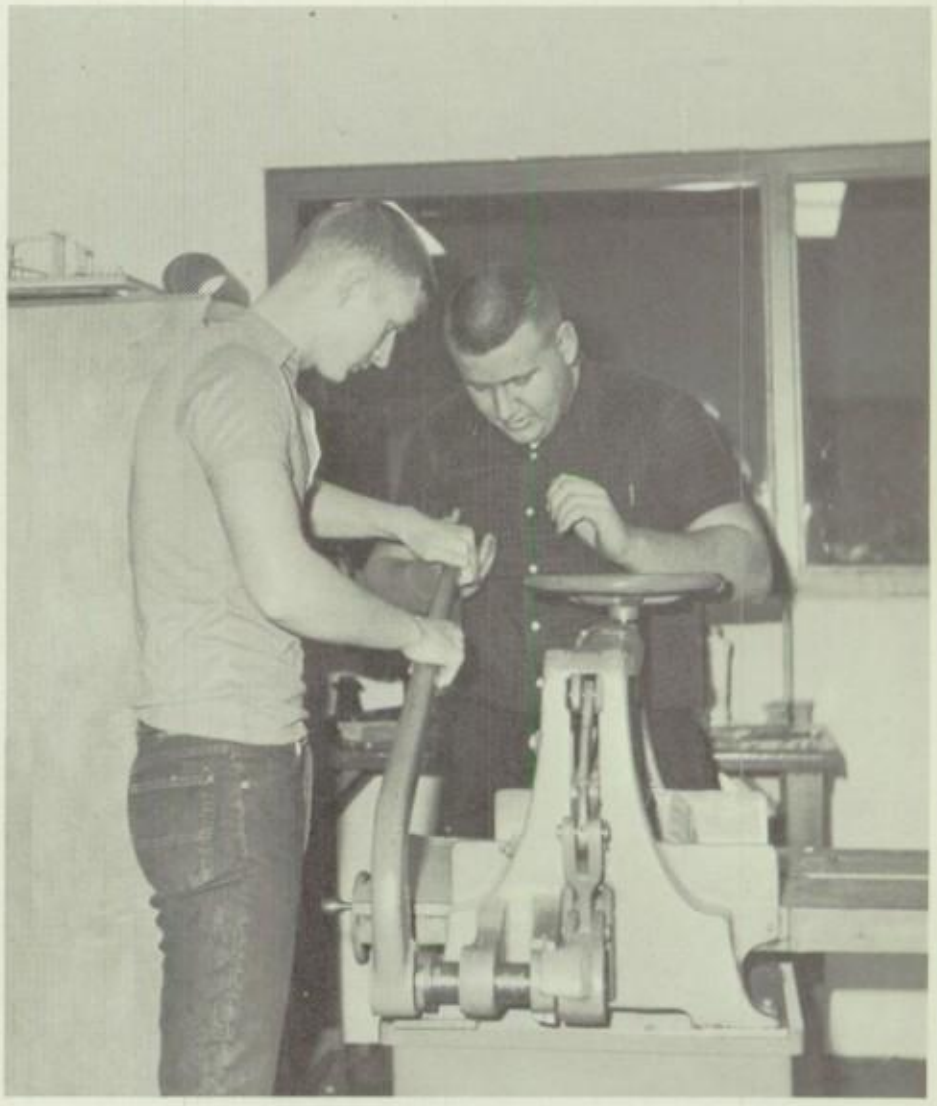
Training and Experience for All

Boys enrolled in Machine Shop and Agriculture learn the skills of non-technical areas. In these departments the boys are taught not only by textbook but also by doing.

Boys taking the shop courses are trained to be carpenters, mechanics, and draftsmen. Practical application is one of the necessary factors in learning these trades.

Boys in agriculture "live on the farm" while they are here at school. They have an opportunity to learn about farm machinery, crops, and animals. The agriculture boys also go on field trips to put their learning in action.

The Home Economics course is a very valuable and instructive course. It has many advantages for the girl whose plans are set on marriage and raising a family after high school. It is also designed for the girl who needs the basic instruction of cooking, sewing, child care, and family relations she has not received otherwise. Any girl is sure to find this course very helpful and rewarding.



Dennis Sizelove and Mike Leer practice using a cutter in shop class.

Mike Fink is measuring off the length of the model car race track which was build by Mr. Oberholtzer.

These agriculture boys test various varieties and qualities of seeds.

Fitness and Driving Care Are Stressed

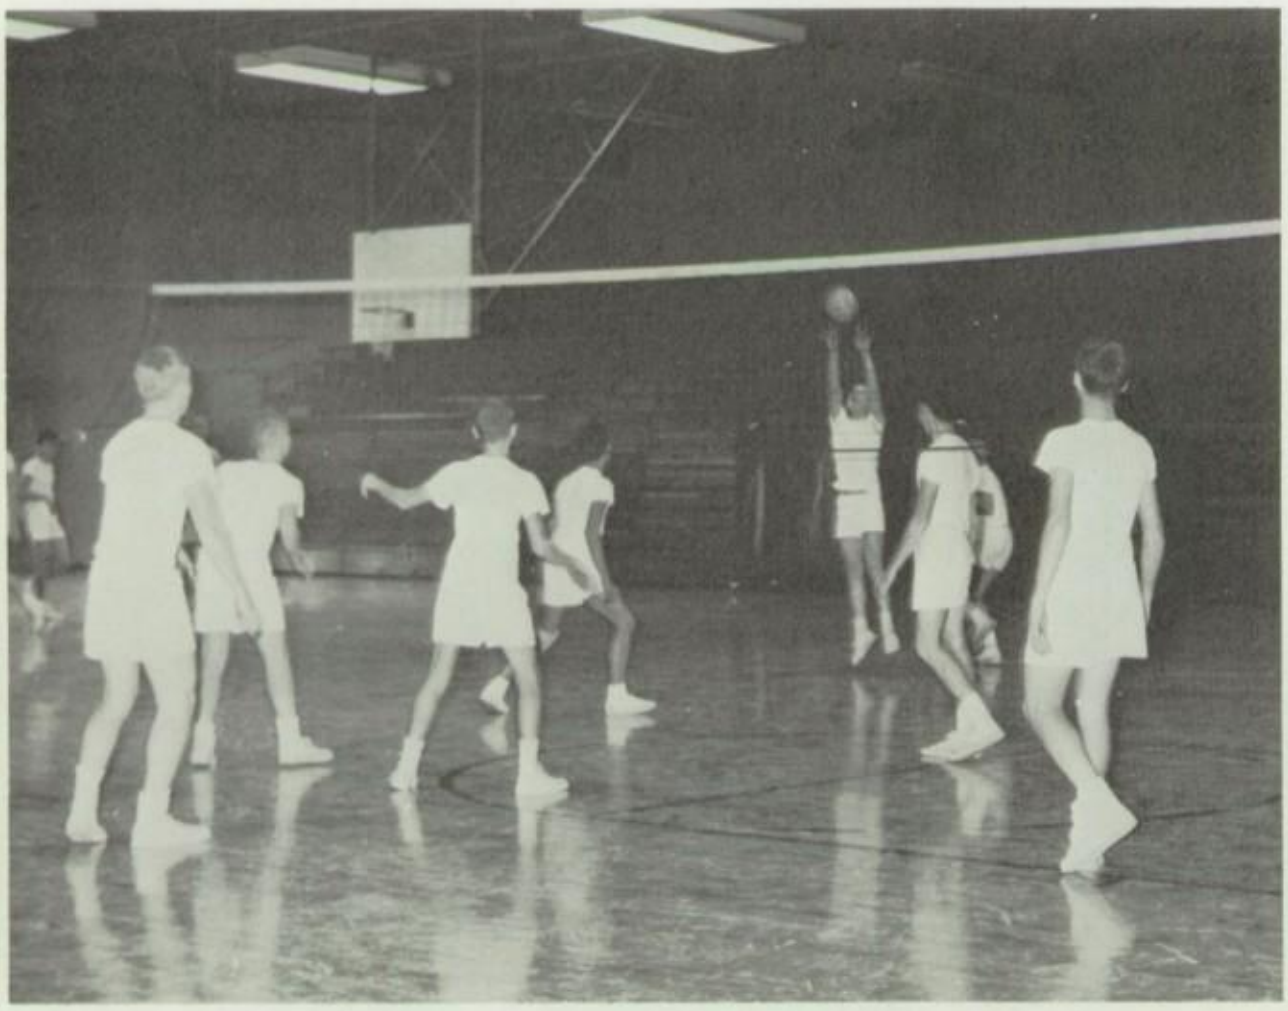
Dennis Ice and Tom Urban watch Linda Millican to make sure she names the parts of the motor correctly.

If at the beginning of the year you thought that most of the underclassmen looked pretty stiff, you were right. After a lazy summer it was hard to get back into shape, but with the help of Mrs. Coleman, Mr. Green, and Mr. Wehsollek it didn't take long for them to get back in the swing. The students tried their skill at several various activities this year. A good physical fitness program is certainly an important assurance to any school.

Sooner or later, most students are challenged by the diplema of Driver's Ed. Should they or shouldn't they take it? The answer is, they definitely should!

The Driver's Education class became one of the most popular courses offered to the students. The credit goes to the excellent teaching facilities and teacher.

The boys' physical ed. class enjoys an exciting game of volleyball.



These art students are too busily engrossed with painting their own artistic creations to care about the activity around them.

Becky Schaffer attends to the task of doing her own weaving.

Talents Displayed Thro Music and Art

The art students have worked hard this year to present some fine projects. They have developed their creative abilities in papier mache masks, molding clay, and murals. The main accomplishment was a beautiful patio for sculpturing work done by the combined work and effort of the whole art department.

This year the Music Department had an extraordinarily fine year. Highlighted by the Winter Concert in December, and the Pops Concert in February, the Choirs and Band did an excellent job. As usual, Crescendo Varieties was fabulous due to the talents displayed by the music and the students.

Cindy Jackley has a big job as accompanist to the Robed Choir and Senior Ensemble.

ACTIVITIES

"Every individual has a place to fill in the some respect, whether he choose to be world, and is important in so or not."—Nathaniel Hawthorne

Gloria Wright, editor and Sally Latchaw, assistant editor, spend some of their noon hour trying to meet deadlines.

Every yearbook every year brings with it deadlines and headlines, captions and copy, long and late hours, and big headaches. This year disappointed no one on the staff.

The year got off to a good start—even before school began in September. The first deadline was met with thirteen unlucky pages missing, but they were made up by the next deadline.

Besides racking its brains creating catchy captions and complete copy, the staff sold sweat shirts and made plans to have a big record hop and crown a queen when the '64 Spectrums would arrive.

But with all the work and worry, the book that holds sweet memories and happy days was finally completed, and to all it presented "The Most Memorable Year Yet!"

The "Tiger's Tale" is a tri-weekly publication by the Journalism Department of Alexandria-Monroe.

The paper's purpose is to keep Alex students informed and thinking. Features of the paper include A.M.H.S. news and sports, world news, and often news of other schools. Editorials are another feature of the paper which express personal and group opinions of the staff.

Co-op Strives to Improve School

Every Monday morning Bonnie Eden, President of Co-op, leads the school in the Pledge of Allegiance.

To keep harmony between students and teachers the Student Co-op has helped by trying to maintain the best of relationships. They had fund raising projects which were to help the goal of Co-op. These students were chosen by classmates to represent them in their opinions.

The idea that the Student Co-op is just another club, is a serious misunderstanding of its function. It is the only organization which represents every student in the school. Therefore, it is the most important student organization in the entire school and needs the understanding, respect, and co-operation of students, faculty, and administrative staff.

After an informal initiation students are honorable members of the club. Regular meetings are held at which there are demonstrations or experiments.

The club often sponsors science programs for the student body and faculty. By doing this they aim to promote a better interest in science and its wide expanding future.

The members are rewarded each year with an annual trip. These trips have taken them to many different places in the past years. They have proven to be most interesting and valuable to all.

Community and Creating Fun in Activities

The Hi-Y is a Christian organization based on helping others. One of their projects was a clothing drive for the "Save the Children Federation."

This year the Hi-Y started their activities with a party at which the new members were initiated. One of the requirements to become a member of Hi-Y is to write a theme telling why you want to have membership in this organization.

In order to make money, they supplied the pencils in the pencil machines located in various parts of the school.

Rough initiation is part of being in Hi-Y as this new member can verify.

Future Homemakers of America, one of our most active clubs, is an organization for girls interested in learning more about the art of homemaking and the responsibilities of family life. The club dedicates each month to a certain objective around which they plan their meetings and activities. Their activities included several parties and dinners which they planned and prepared themselves, discussions on family life and marriage, and meetings which featured guest speakers.

Not only is our F.H.A. active in the local unit but also in the district and state organizations. They have attended meetings in both these units and plan to attend another state meeting in the spring.

Judgings Provide Additional Knowledge

Future Farmers of America is a national organization for boys interested in farming and various phases of agricultural-business. The aims of this club are to develop agricultural leadership; character, and thrift. The boys are encouraged to develop supervised farming projects, achieve in scholarship and participate in various contests. The judging contests are land, dairy, livestock, poultry, and crops. Each spring they take a trip to a place of agricultural interest.

Boys in Future Farmers learn how to become successful farmers by repairing and improving farm implements.

Future Teachers of America Club, under the guidance of Miss French, provides an opportunity for students interested in teaching to decide whether this is the profession for which they will be suited in later life. One of the main activities of the club is to observe the various grade levels and to experiment with different teaching techniques in schools in our surrounding area. The members also helped at the annual Open House and took part in National Education Week.

The International Relations Club is an organization set up to promote a better understanding of the relations among nations throughout the world, and a knowledge of the United Nations.

The club held a banquet in October for the new members and had a Christmas party in December. Each year the I.R.C. sends delegates to the Model United Nations General Assembly held at Anderson College. This year it was held in April and many members participated in lengthy discussions over various topics concerning the nations.

Students from all over the state meet as respresentatives of different countries to discuss and debate at the Model U.N.

This year members of French Club took time out of their noon hour to practice French Christmas Carols which they sang to shut-in families all over Alexandria.

The French Club of Alexandria-Monroe was organized to help promote a better understanding of the language.

Meetings are held regularly at which discussions of France are held plus films are shown. This helps the members by better acquainting them with the cultural aspects of the country of France.

The club has organized a set of rules which each member tries to fulfill. With such co-operation the members are able to learn more about the language.

To give more variety to the club, visitors from France are asked to come and talk to them. Each year the members go Christmas caroling singing French Christmas carols.

The purpose of Latin Club is to broaden the members' knowledge of the Roman civlization and language and to enable them to make a practical application of this knowledge to their everyday life. Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Mitchell, Latin Club has become one of the more active clubs in school.

Getting off to a quick start, the club began its regular schedule of activities with an initiation party, a combination Roman banquet and slave auction. Monthly meetings included a program and entertainment presented by a selected committee.

One of its money-making projects was the sponsorship of a guest speaker, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Franciscas. They showed many slides and films of their travels to India.

Drama Club Stages Another Hit

Gloria Wright, Mike Murray, Charon Staley, and Dennis Maddox represent the "high society" at A.M.H.S. as they go through Drama Club initiation.

Under the fine direction of Mrs. Ramsey, another crop of blossoming actors and actresses were discovered as the Senior class Drama Club presented the annual play. The excellent acting, organized stage help, and tremendous coaching produced another hit.

Although the main goal of the Drama Club was to learn more about the fine arts of speaking and dramatics, the group also rounded out their activities by several parties, one of which was a Christmas party and a party was held after the play.

G. A. A. Promotes Physical Fitness

Keeping physically fit and vitally alert is of great importance in a day's active life. This is the goal of Girls' Athletic Association, whose leader is Mrs. Coleman.

Through active participation in such sports as archery, basketball, volleyball, baseball, and badminton, each girl not only learned the value of fitness and sportsmanship but enjoyed the fellowship and fun of working together to attain the goal of G.A.A.

The first and most important goal of the Cheerleaders' Club is to produce good cheerleaders with the second goal being money raising to send future cheerleaders to camp. The Tip-Off record hop before the basketball season was the first major money-making project and it proved to be very successful.

The Girls' Cheerblock put much glamour into home games and pep sessions. Their ability to lead the crowd in the many cheers helped the team very enthusiastically. They were entertaining in their ability to do hand motions and other yells which involved actions of originality and entertainment. They are a group which has practiced and worked hard toward attaining the many compliments which they so earnestly deserved. They are a group of girls of which we can be proud.

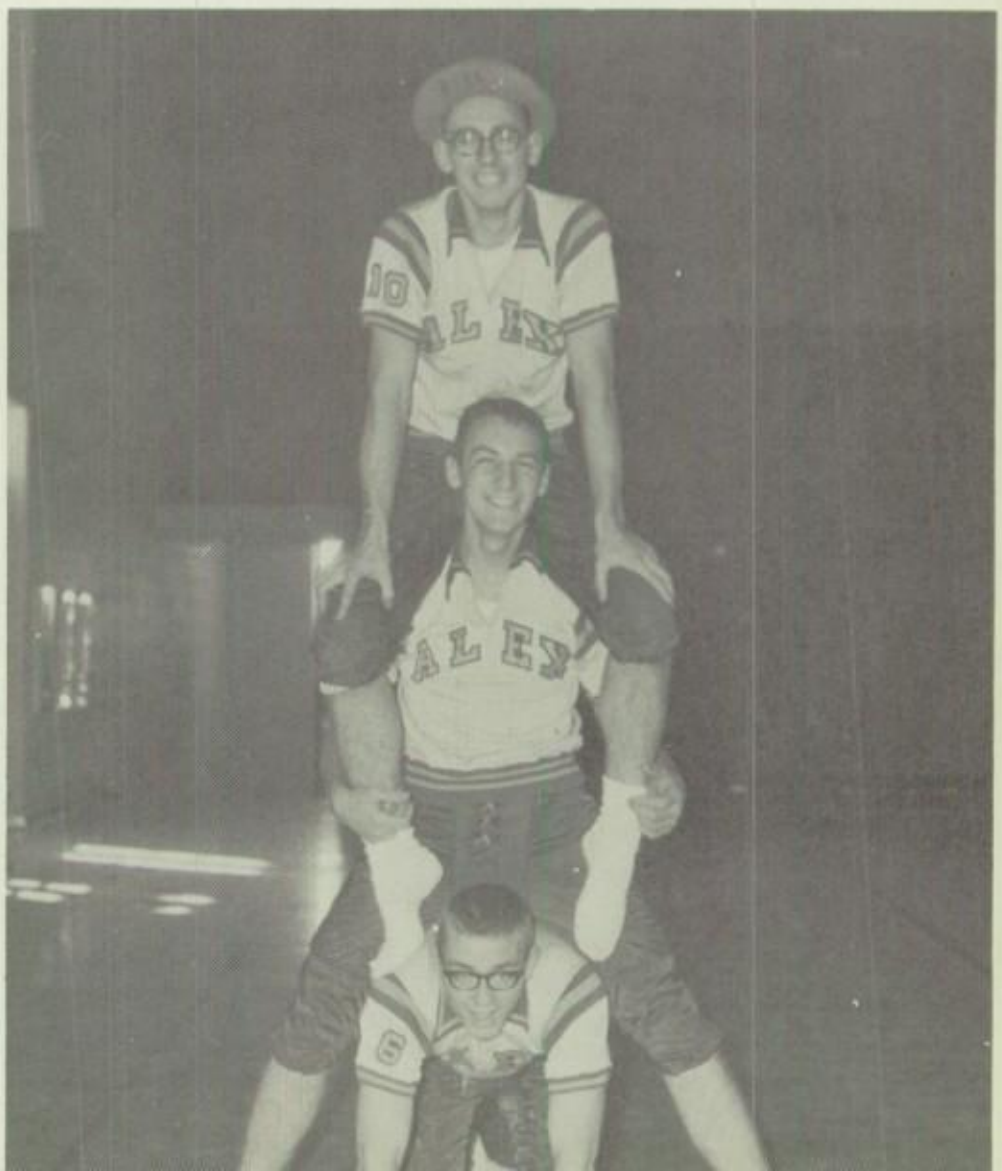
Spirit at Games and Pep Sessions

The Boys' Cheerblock seemed to display remarkable enthusiasm at our games this year. Although they seem to enjoy creating their own specific yells for the appropriate situations, they gave a great boost to the mounting excitement at each game.

Their four "thrilling" cheerleaders led the boys' cheerblock in yells at our pep sessions. They showed the good old Alex spirit which helped to motivate our team on to victory.



Bill Grubb, George Smith, and Mike Noland, three of the boys' cheerleaders, are caught practicing their yells for the next pep session.

To start off the year, the choirs gave a Fall Concert. This included both the Robed Choir and Girls' Chorus along with the Senior Ensemble and the Girls' Ensemble.

Other concerts given by the choirs were the Christmas Concert, Pops Concert and Crescendo Varieties. The choirs also presented Thanksgiving and Christmas Convocations for the school.

If choir members didn't get much sleep Easter morning, it's not the Easter bunny's fault. All of them arose early to sing in the Easter Sunrise Service.

In April the choirs participated in the County Choral Festival held at Anderson this year. The Robed Choir entered the choir contest in April also.

One thing new the vocal department did was to sponsor the concert choir from Eureka College to sing before the student body.

Band Takes Ist Place at Mermaid

Each morning the band can be heard working on songs to be presented at the home basketball games.

"Tenth place? Wow!" This was indeed the comment of every band member this summer when the band won at the Indiana State Fair Marching Contest. This was just a climax to weeks of practicing. They retained their first place title at the North Webster Mermaid Festival.

The band continued their precision marching throughout the fall with many half-time routines. During the basketball season the twirlers presented entertaining half-time routines while the band performed many tuneful numbers for the crowd.

The Christmas Concert and Crescendo Varieties featured the combined talents of the choir and band, besides numerous, individual acts by members of each group.

Sectional Climaxes School Spirit

School spirit had its ups and downs throughout the football and basketball seasons. Enthusiasm was highest during the basketball season's Sectional play. The Girls' Cheerblock, decked in white blouses and red gloves, drew attention from the other fans by their ability to out yell any other school, friend or foe. The Boys' Cheerblock added a special touch, as it was, with their original and choice selections.

The band livened every pep session and ball game with band cheers and a swingin' beat that had everyone squirming in their seats.

The band and twirlers provided entertainment and served as a cheering block within itself at our ball games.

A tense moment grips the crowd at a home football game.

Devoting much of their time to sparking school spirit the varsity cheerleaders, Margie Sparks, Darlene Golden, Melody Hannah, and Nina Heartbarger, did an excelent job.

Cheerleaders Motivate Tiger Spirit

The B-Team scored a very successful season with Katreena Collier, Susan Plackard, June Sparks, and Sally Latchaw backing them all the way.

Connie Cooper, Karen Etchison, Beth Schmidt, and Sue Shafer cheered the Freshmen Cubs during their season of play.

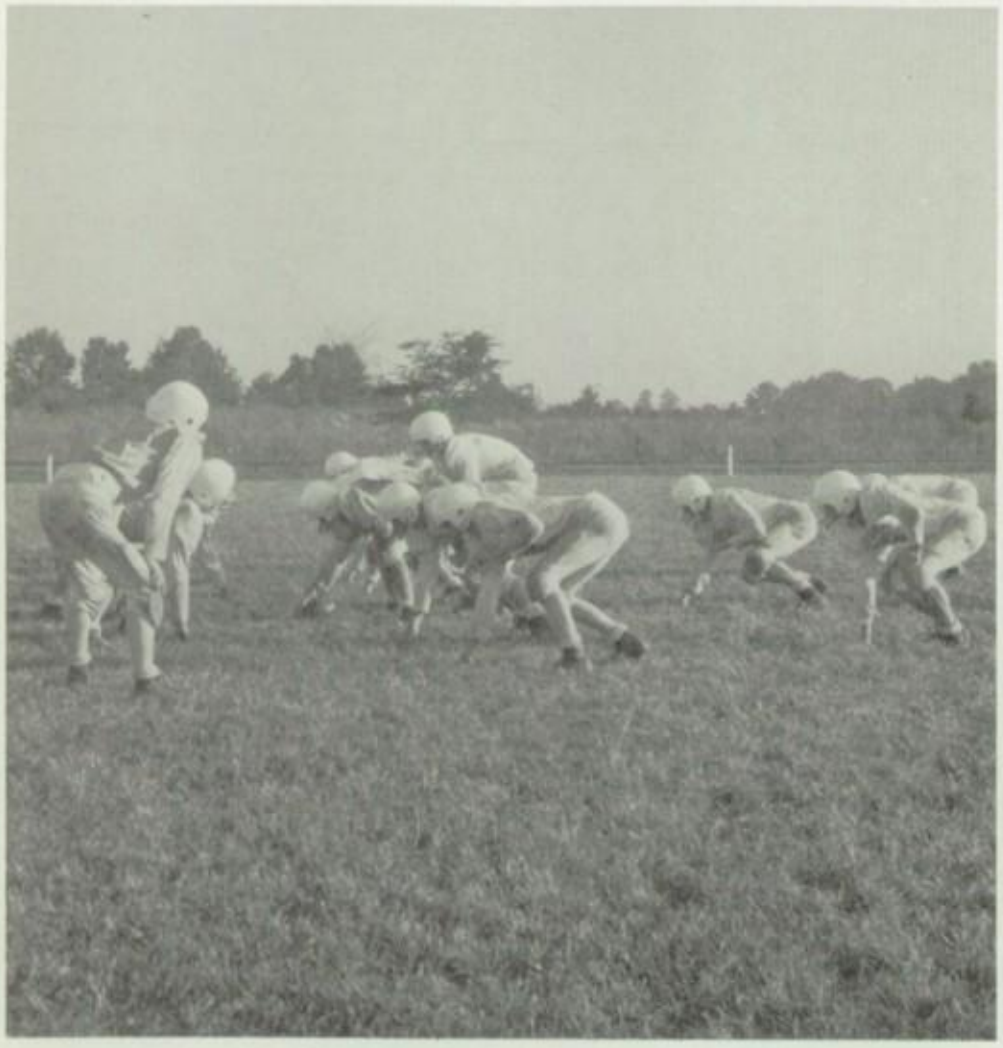
Football practice starts even before school does.



The football season for the Alexandria Tigers was a long and dismal one after graduation of the entire starting line-up, Coach Wehsollek found himself in a rebuilding year. The Bengals ended the season with a 2-7 record.

The young squad started the season with a 20-14 loss to the Plymouth Rockies. The Tigers were ahead in the second half but could not seem to hold on.

The arch-rival Elwood Panthers were the next to meet the young Tigers. With many key injuries before and during this game the Tigers found it a rough road to go. The Tigers were finally beaten 27-12.

Yardage, Start the Football Season

Next the Wabash Apaches, the eventual CIC Champions, came to town. The Bengals probably played their best game of the season this night. The Apaches had too much defense and overpowered the Tigers 14-0.

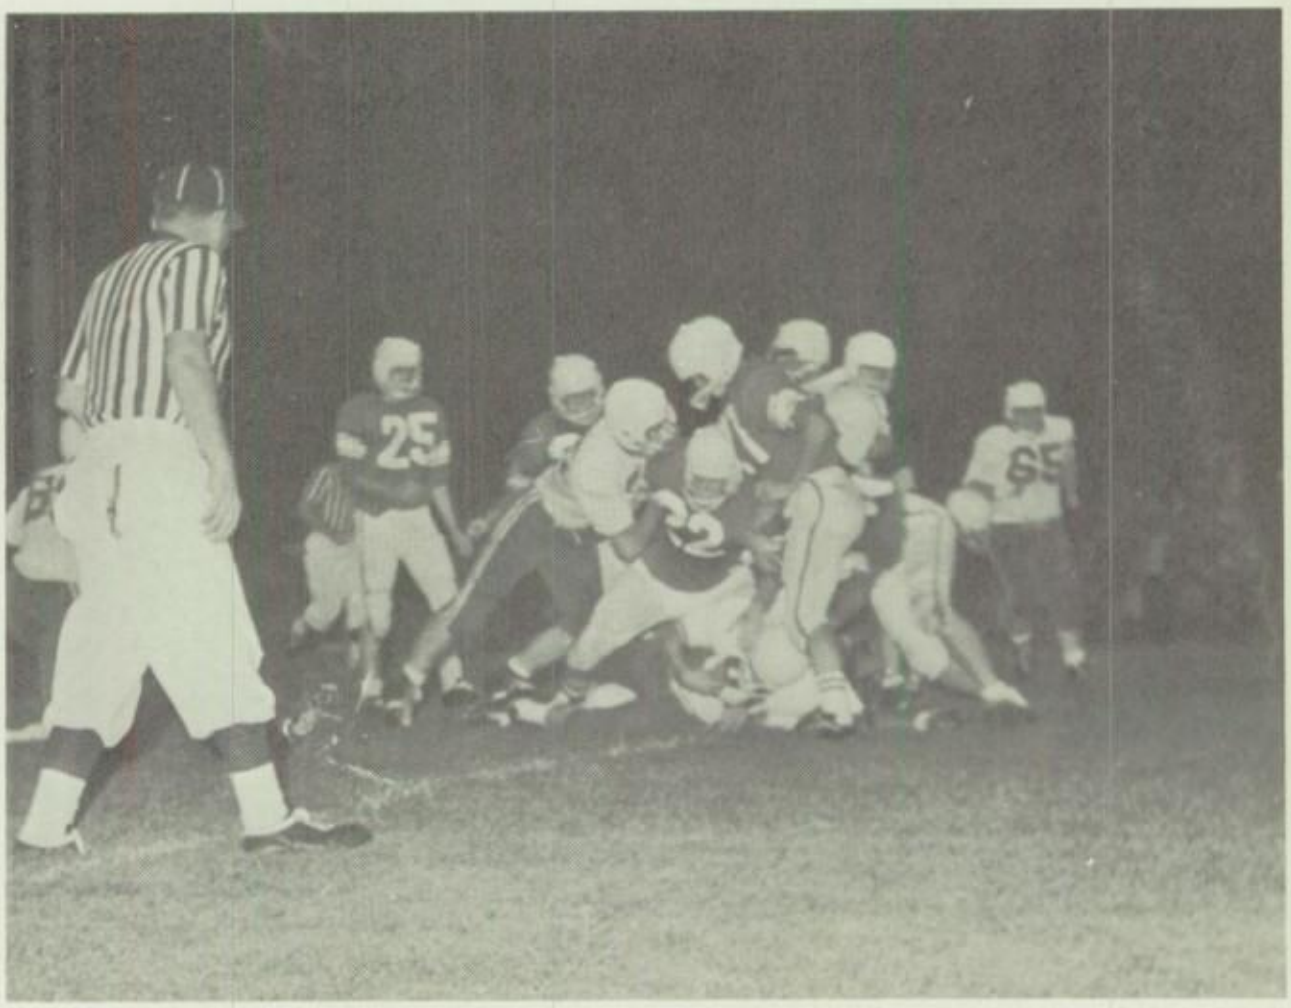
The Greenfield Tigers were the next in line to visit the Alex Tiger's den. This was the first victory for the young Alex Tigers with a final score of 13-7. The halftime ceremonies were highlighted by the crowning of Jeanne Schweitzer as the 1963 Homecoming Queen.

Warsaw Tigers were the next opponents of the Alex squad. The northern Tigers completely dominated the game and ended up with a 52-12 victory.

Huntington Vikings were up and ready for the Alexandria squad and put them in the hold early by scoring a touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. The Tigers never regained control and were defeated 41-7.

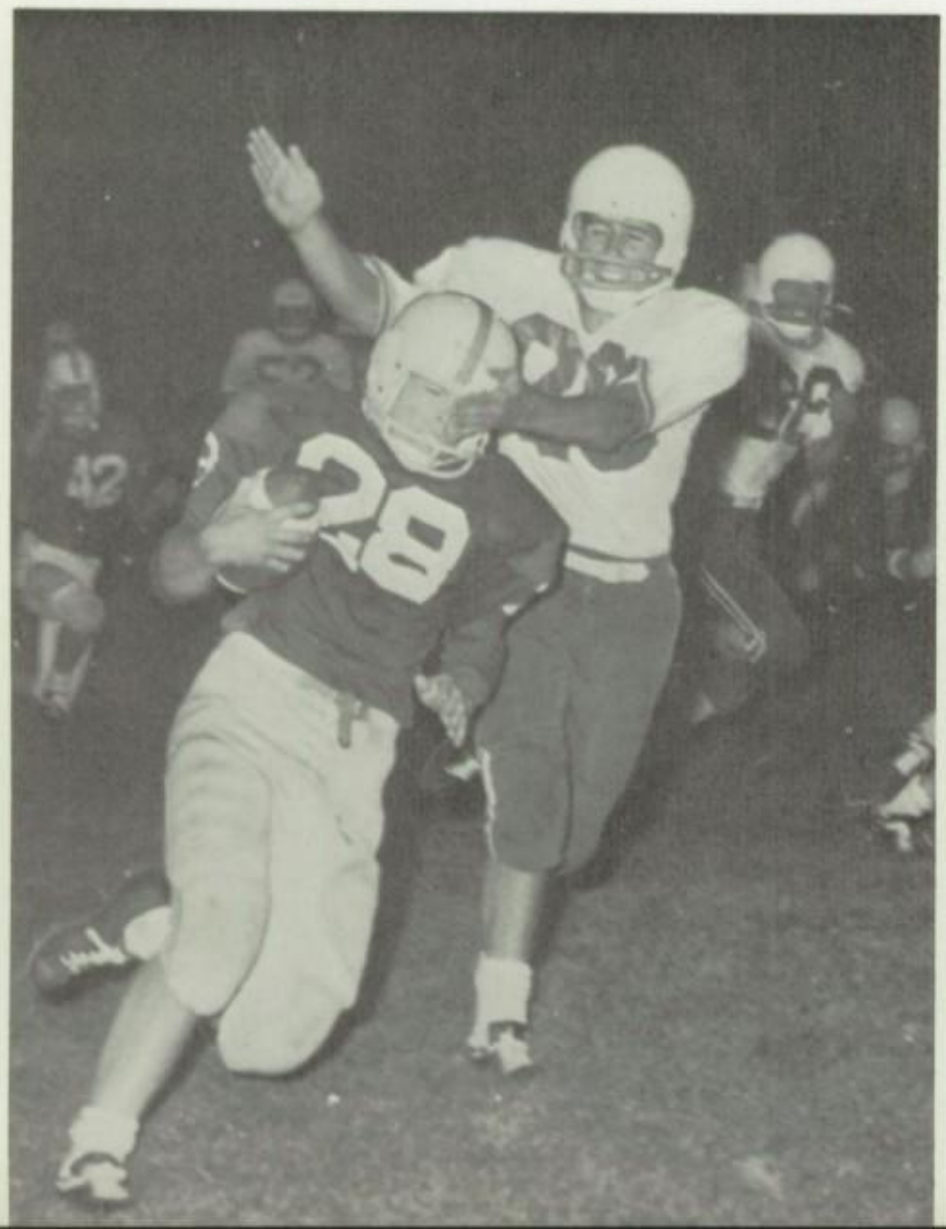
Steve Eden, Sophomore halfback, is cutting the corner and heading upfield as a Highland player tries to stop him.

A dive play into the middle of the line seems to have failed as the entire middle of the Highland line comes in to stop the play.



A tense moment grips the crowd at a home football game.

Alex Amid Rebuilding Year Helped



The Tiger squad kept the tradition of never being beaten by the Highland Varsity football team by gaining a 14-0 decision.

The Madison Heights Pirates and their air attack proved to much for the Wehsollek-coached crew as the Pirates rode to a 39-12 victory.

Tipton Blue Devils sporting from the 1962 loss handed them by the Tigers tried to gain some revenge by rolling up a 63-6 victory and finished the season for the Alexandria Tigers.

Lee Jolliff, Tiger quarterback, seems to be poking his finger in a Highland player's eye but really he is only making a tackle.

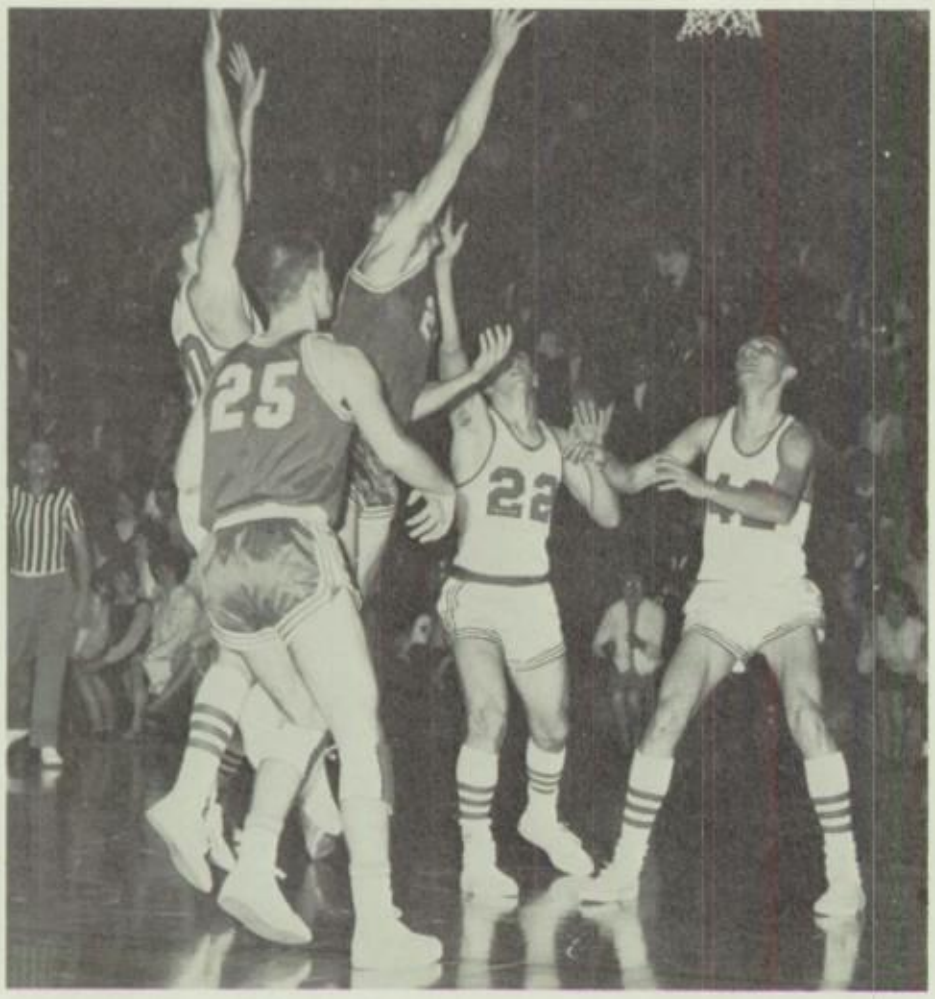
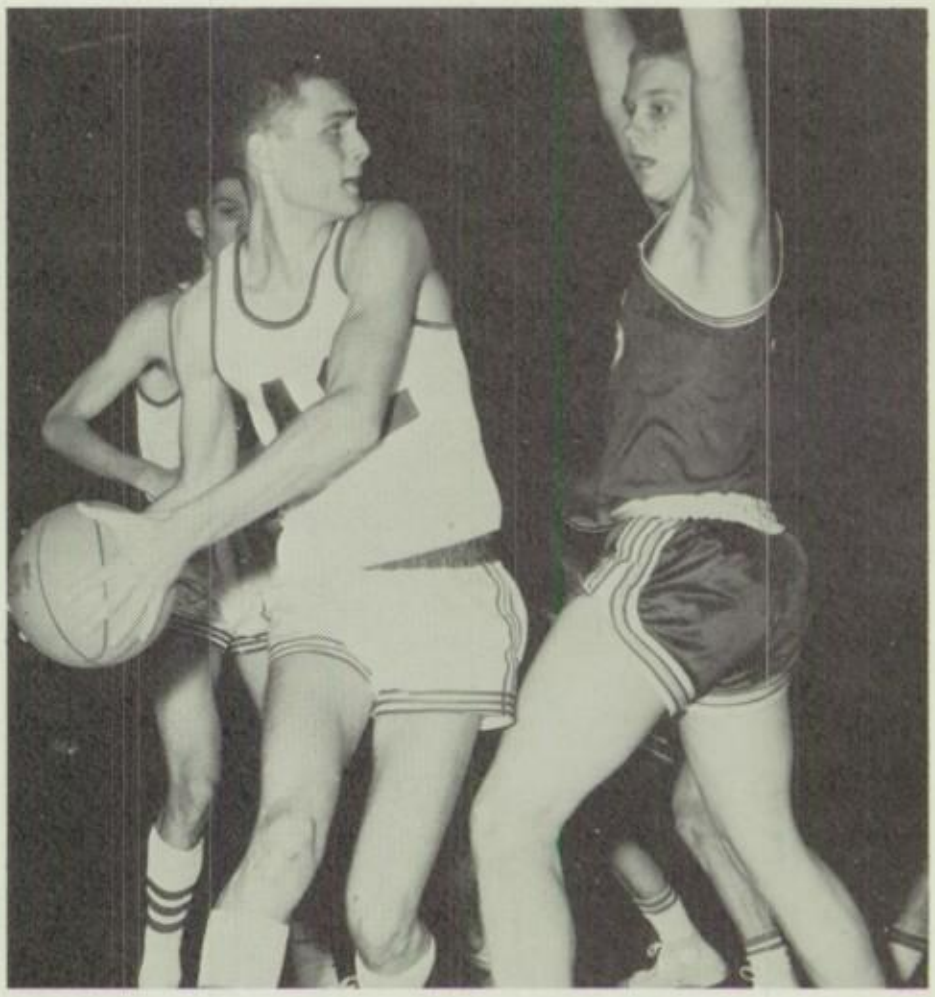
Rebounds, Add Up to Winning the Game



Gary Swisher finds just enough room to get a shot away. Tom Urban is ready to rebound if the ball goes astray.



Jim Hahn dares Denny Richwine to try and go around in Sectional play.

Lack of experience and heighth seemed to be the major problems of Shorty Burdsall's 1963-64 Tiger gang. With only two seniors on the squad, many experienced boys will be returning next year.

The Tigers opened the season with a 51-49 victory over Highland Laddies.

Jim Stone's Summitville Goblins were next, and the Bengals disposed of them to the tune of 44-27.

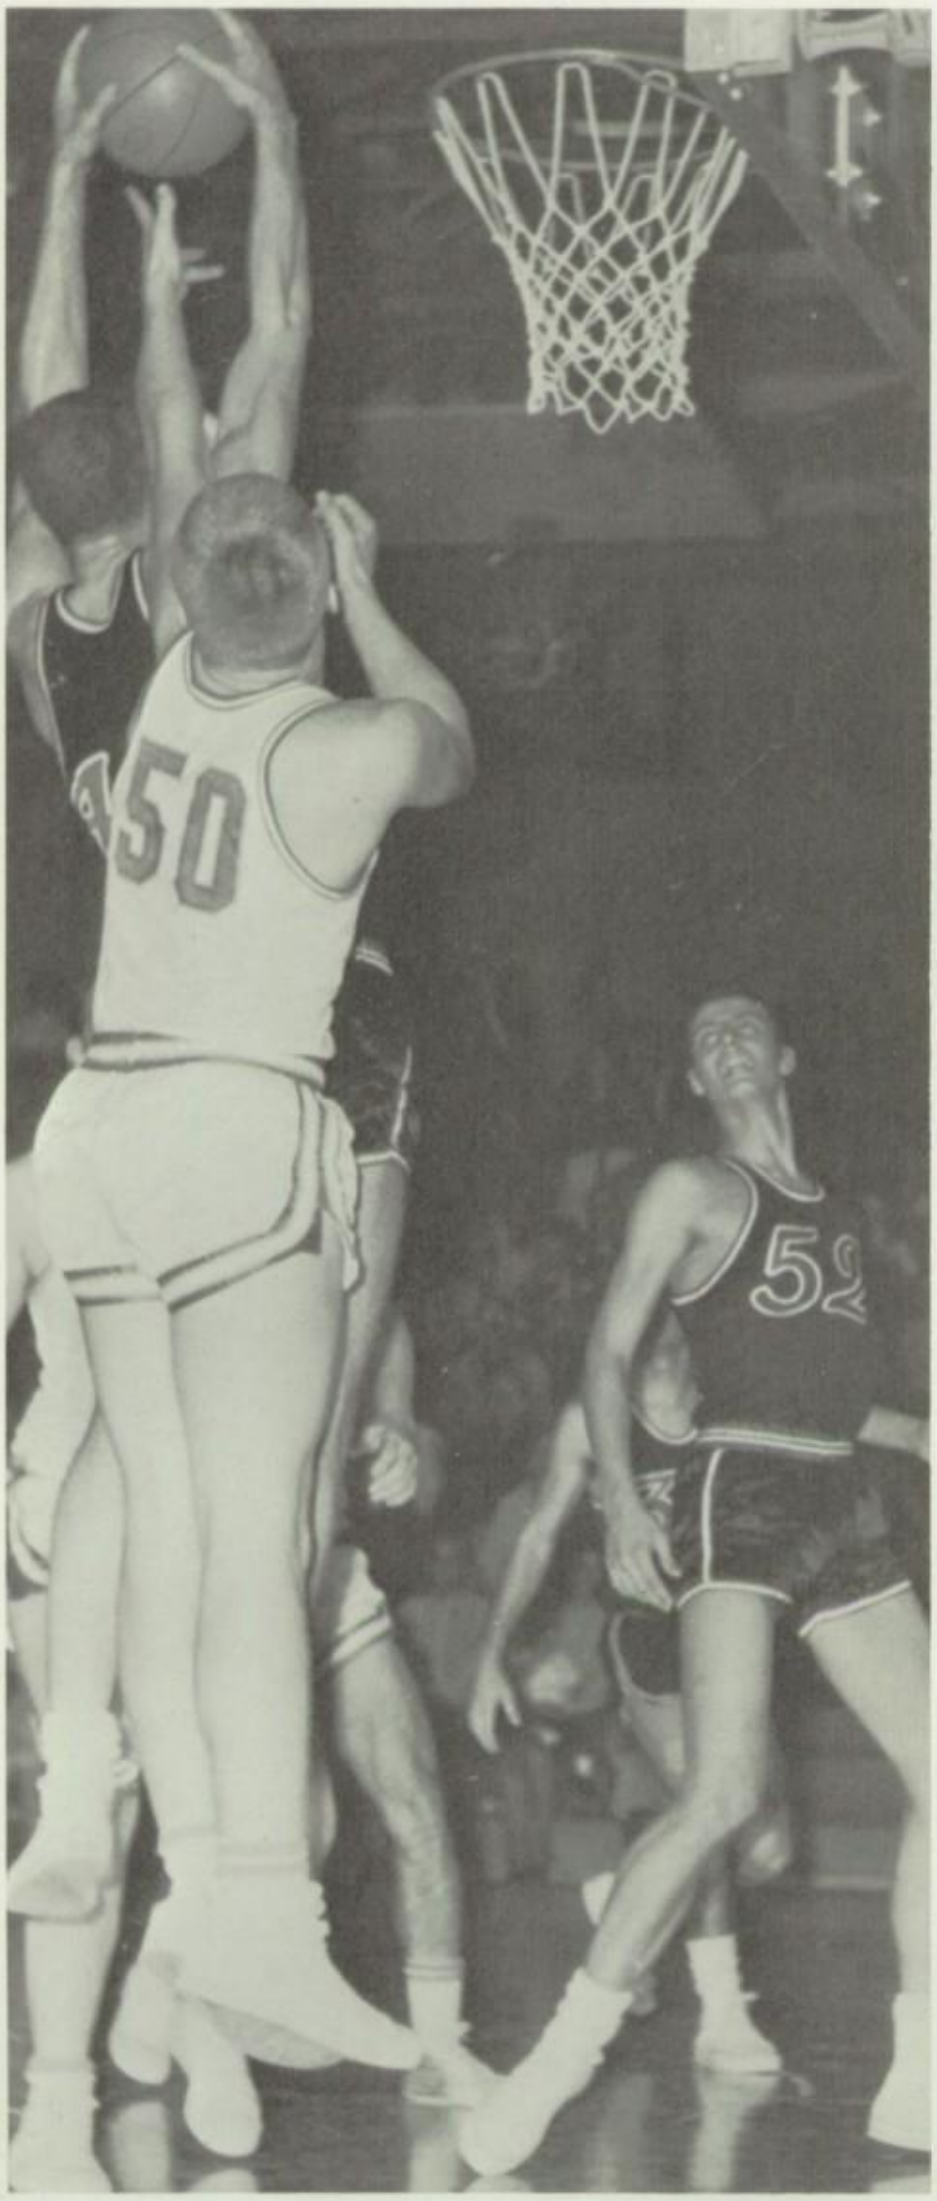
The Royerton Redbirds invaded Tigertown and left with a narrow escape of 56-55 over the Tigers.

The Tigers tried to regain their winning ways against Peru, but fell short by a margin of 46-37.

Jack Wilson's big Madison Heights Pirates were the Burdsall coached crew's next victim. The Tigers tallie a winning score over Madison's boasting with a 61-56 score.

Mike Crist and Tony Hocker seem to be giving Ron Drake, Elwood guard, the squeeze play.

Hoosier Hysteria Mounts and Old Rivalrie



Jim Hahn, Tiger center, is seen trying to rebound over the back of Huntington's Mike Weaver.

Plymouth's Quakers were the next opposition the Tigers met. The Quakers were readily disposed of by a score of 61-40.

The ever tough Pendleton Irish were the next to invade the Tiger den, where they were clawed by a victory for Alex of 57-43.

Huntington's tall and talented Vikings were the next team to encounter the Tigers. The Burdsall crew made a good showing before falling to the Huntington team's 55-45 victory.

The Noblesville Holiday Tourney was next on the schedule. The Tigers drew Madison Heights, but this time faired unsuccessful in an attempt to be the victor. The score was 54-45 in favor of the Pirates.

The Tigers met the Elwood Panthers for consolation honors, but the black cats had too much steam and defeated the Tigers 65-58.

The Noblesville Millers came to Tigertown for the first game of 1964. Heighth and outside shooting proved the downfall of the Tigers by a score of 70-61.

Rochester's Zebras made their successful appearance on January 17 and carried away the game with a score of 55-45.

Portland's Panthers were the Tiger's next opposition. They went home with a 63-55 tally.

Elwood's fieldhouse was the destination of the Tigers on January 24. Errors and Elwood's guards proved too much for the Tiger's blunders and made the final count 73-56 for Elwood.

Coach Tyrone Payne's Frankton Eagles scorched the nets for 73 points leaving the Tigers in the cold with only 55 points.

Rekindled as Sectional Play Begins

The Bengals had the sweet taste of victory by defeating Warsaw 55-41 in the next game.

Hartford City's sharp shooting Airdales came to Alex to play ball and did just that by trouncing the Tigers 59-37.

The Tigers traveled to the number three team in the state, Tipton, home of the Blue Devils, and knew the true meaning of the word defeat when the buzzer sounded and showed the final score to be 84-55.

The Burris Owls were next in coming to Tigertown. They made good on a narrow margin of 49-48.

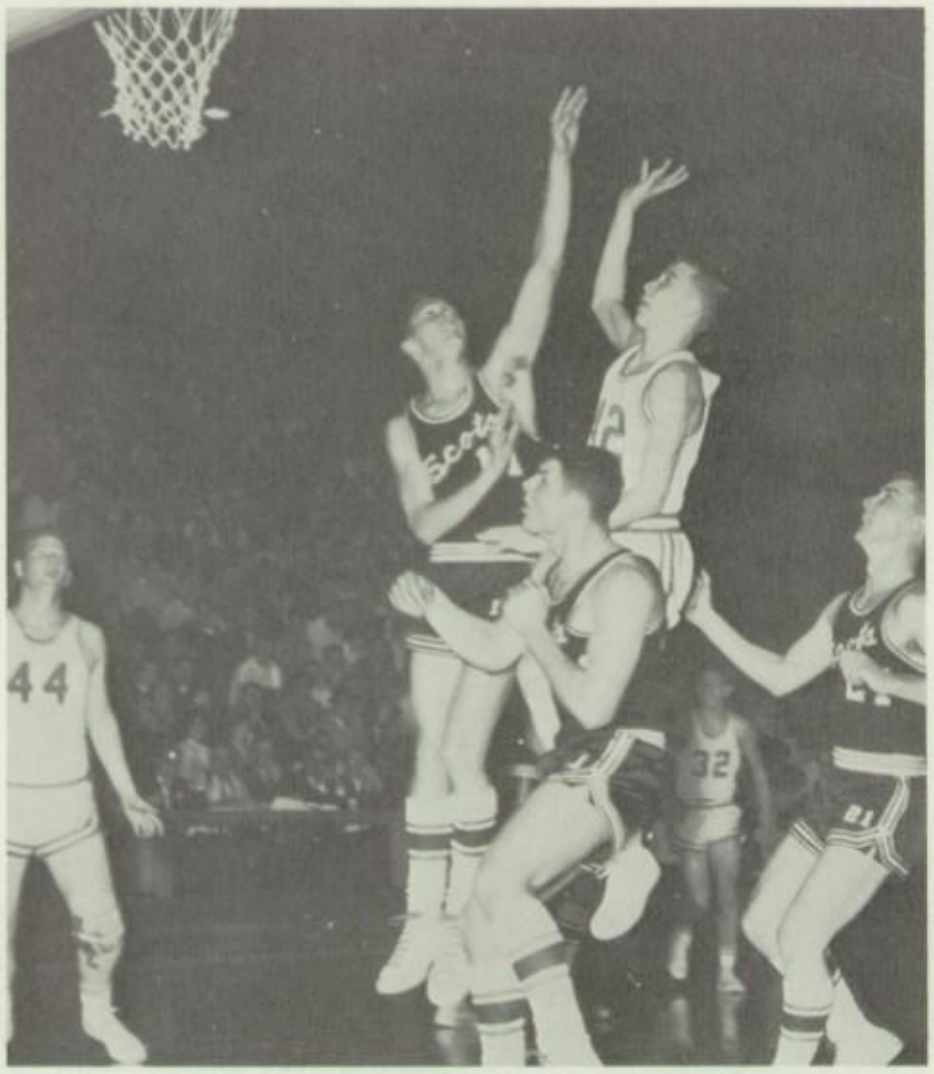
Wabash's Apaches and Alex's Tigers just didn't mix in the last game of the season for both teams. The Apaches managed to score a basket in the last few seconds that gave them the game with a score of 48-47.

Thus ended a long, hard season of play. The boys did a commendable job, and the final show of their efforts will come when most of them go on to play on the team next year.

An unidentified Highland player seems to be using George Schott as a crutch to aid him in getting the ball.

Gary Swisher, guard, seems to be looking for somebody to pass to. Big George Schott seems to be helping Gary look.

Practice and Teamwork Reward B-Team



Tony Hocker reaches great heights by getting an extra boost from Highland.

Competitive Sports of the Spring

Alexandria - Monroe's baseball players faced a tough schedule in 1963 meeting many top teams. The Tigers got off to a bad start by losing a close game to Muncie South Side 14-13. The Tigers won their next two games against Madison Heights 8-7 and Royerton 11-0.

Next they played against Highland and won 14-6. Their last games of the season was with Anderson in which the Tigers lost a close 7-8 defeat. They ended their season with a 3-3 record.

Dennis Plackard and Terry Muey are ready to get in shape for spring baseball training, now that basketball season has ended.

Pitchers aren't suppose to be hitters but Lee Jolliff is trying to dispose the idea by taking his turn at bat.

A Muncie Southside player is trying unsuccessfully to slide into third base.

Outdoor Events Strengthen Mind and

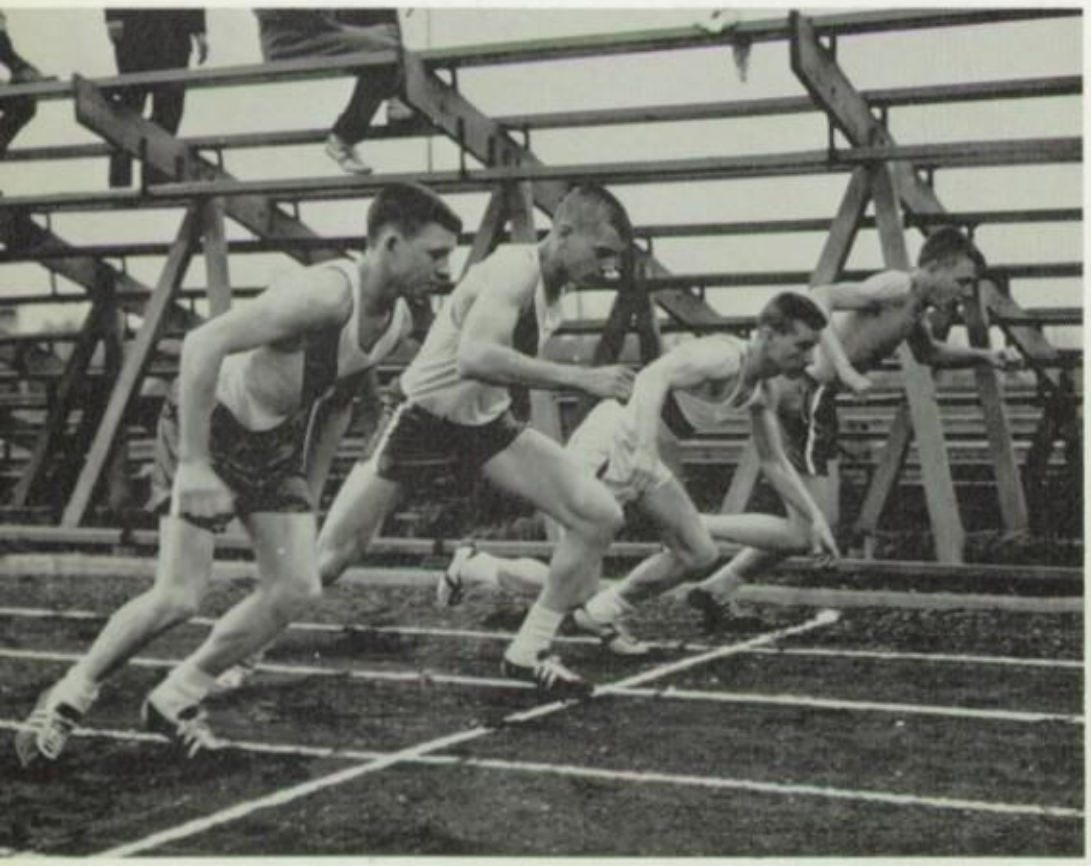
Tiger distance men start on the long and grueling mile run. This race not only takes speed, but it takes endurance.



Track being a spring sport must share the spotlight with baseball. An individual can excel in track more than in any other high school sport. Many events which take place at a track meet prove not only valuable to the cindermen but interesting to the spectators.

Cross Country is a fall sport and it differs from track in that in Cross Country the only event is a two mile run.

Although inexperience was the deciding factor during this season, the return of many lettermen gives a hint of success for the coming season.

Body Through Discipline and Self-Control

It's a good start and the runners are off to a grueling 440 yard sprint.

Bob Paddock, Tiger distance man, finishes in his specialty the 880.

1963 CROSS-COUNTRY—ROW 1—D. Porter, B. Reid, R. Porter, M. Crist, G. Swisher, L. Allen, Coach Mr. McFarren. ROW 2—R. Wilson, D. Tankersly, R. Cox, T. Urban, T. Chaplin, M. Lynch, T. Hocker.

Administration and Faculty Efforts

Best of Luck,
Thomas Thomas Jr.

TOP—Superintendent, Mr. Thomas has completed four years at Alexandria. He is always willing to help students and plays an important part in our school program.

BOTTOM—Mr. Victor Evans will end his career as principal this year but his memory and ideals will live forever in the hearts of those who have associated with him.

Many students tend to forget the debt we owe to the faculty and administration for their outstanding efforts to maintain our efficient education system and excellent curriculum and still more important their efforts to guide us toward higher learning. Their friendliness and willingness to help are a constant source of encouragement to the student body. The key to this cooperation is the unselfish interest which they exhibit in their work and in the students as individuals.

In addition to their regular school duties, our faculty devotes much extra time to extracurricular activities of the students, including such things as clubs, class plays, Senior trips, dances, and all the other activities which round out the A.M.H.S. schedule. Students seldom realize the tremendous responsibilities which our faculty and administration personnel have assumed and how well they have carried them out.

Effective administration played a very important part in our education. Board members are: Seated—Merlin Fuller, Earnest Allen, and Neal Johnson. STANDING—A. R. Lower, A. H. Baumgartner, Don Crull, and Thomas Thomas, Jr.

Sponsoring Extracurricular Activities

These eleven men are representatives from the North Central Association, which gives ratings throughout the area on high schools. They spent three full days from December 11 to 13 observing the academic curriculum, teaching methods, and the student body.

They left our school, each member giving us a very commendable rating. We can be proud that we are considered to be a well-organized and disciplined school.

Always available to keep our school in top-notch condition were Lloyd Stewart and Ray Watson.

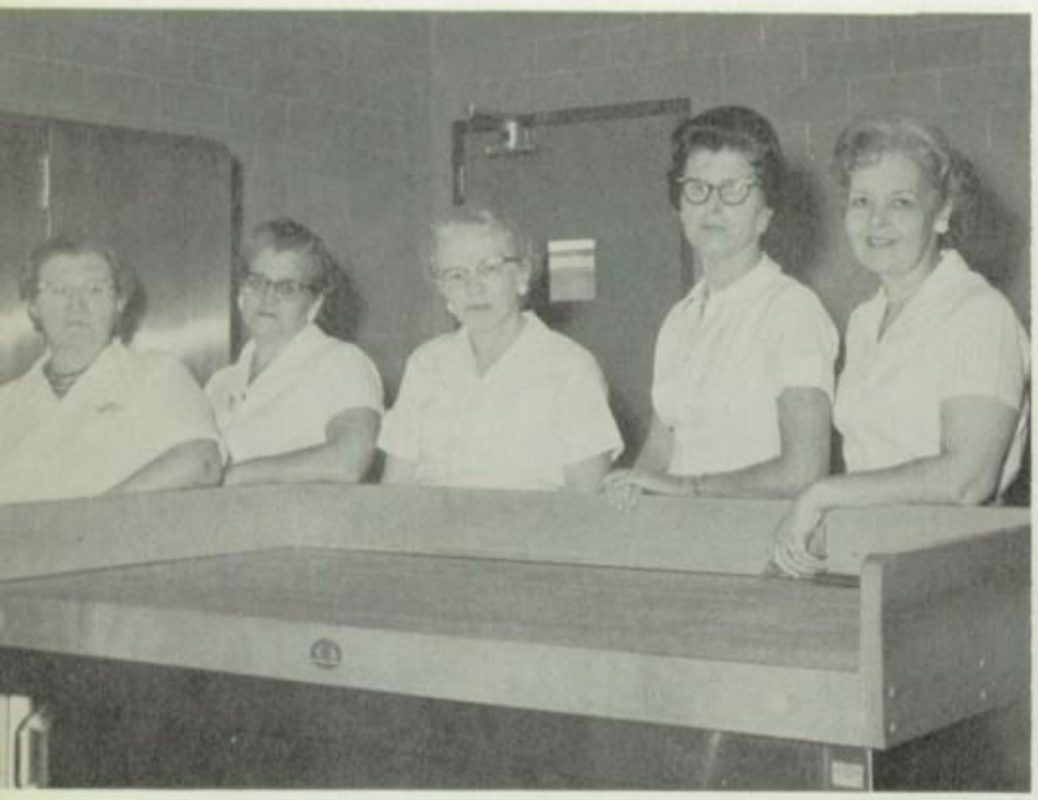
The formidable appearance of a school building is nevertheless brightened by the warmth and cheerfulness of all the dedicated people who do their best to contribute to our education.

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to the janitors who keep our school in such good condition and to the cooks who prepare wholesome hot lunches. Our thanks also goes out to the prompt bus drivers who greet us each morning with a friendly hello.

Many students also lend their assistance to efficient operation of daily activities and they are equally appreciated for their jobs well done.

Respect and Administration to Those Who

Preparing our delicious meals are our cooks: Minnie Wehsollek, Ruth Thomas, Hazel Gustin, Bernice Hopper, and Byrdine Fox.



Seeing that we arrive at school on time each morning is a part of these drivers' job: Keith Sizelove, Andy Anderson, Dude Adams, Bob Howerton, Jim Jude, Russell Edgell, Dick Thompson, Kenny Cranfield, and Pete Sayre.

Individuals Receive Honors

Those selected to attend Hoosier Boys' and Girls' State were Gloria Wright, Susan Hughes, Bonnie Eden, Dennis Plackard, Terry Muey, and those absent are June Quear and Dan Crull.

Scholarship plus leadership, service, citizenship, and character are the basic essentials to be considered for membership into National Honor Society. Students are chosen from the upper five per cent of the Junior class and the upper ten per cent of the Senior class. Belonging to this group is truly the highest honor bestowed to a student in high school.

These students were chosen as representatives to Hoosier Boys' and Girls' State held at Indiana University under the sponsorship of the American Legion. The purpose of Boys' and Girls' State is to learn the principles and functions of the government. The students spent a busy week acquiring political experience, learning all phases of a democratic government. After the valuable opportunity given to these students they will be able to fulfill the job of being tomorrow's leading citizens.

The End of the Beginnings

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS: President Terry Walker, Vice President Stanley Ray, Secretary Susan Magee, and Treasurer Cindy Jackley.

This past May we reached the goal toward which we had striven for four years. For some this means the beginning of a whole new career. For others it means an opportunity for full-time employment. Regardless of the road we chose, we shall never forget the many parties and friendships made, the projects to make money and the hard studying that made up our high school years.

The doors of the new Alexandria-Monroe High School opened in the fall of 1960 to a group of proud Freshmen. With this school came unfamiliar faces and new routines. Through class parties and social gatherings we developed into contributing individuals rather than a class of unwelcome youngsters.

The highlight of our Sophomore year began with the arrival of our class sweaters. We broke away from the traditional parties at the Kanteen and finished the year with a dinner and dance at the Colonnade.

Our Junior year began in a big way with the addition of our class rings. Next on the agenda was a trip to Indianapolis and the ice capades. The coming Spring brought a series of intelligence tests and a strong feeling of responsibility.

As Seniors we are kept busy in extra-curricular activities. Preparations for Homecoming, class parties, and our trip to New York and the World's Fair are just a few of the highlights as we move toward the climax of our high school days. We are proud of the leadership and scholastic record our class has attained throughout these years, and the fine enthusiasm and friendship shown by the students.

As we prepare to leave A.M.H.S. we say good-bye to our many friends but hope that these years spent in learning will stimulate us to be better citizens.

We've looked and looked through yearbooks and more yearbooks, and we've decided that we have pretty special people in our senior class, and we want you to know all about them.

Diligent Work and More Serious

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: President Beverly Washburn; Vice President Gary Swisher; Secretary Toni Fox; and Treasurer Jerry McClead.

Proudly strutting down the corridors of A.M.H.S. are the haughty Juniors with all the esteem of upperclassmen and all the jealous prejudice of still being underclassmen to the Senior elite. Their days are filled with essays and exams, club meetings, school activities, and dates . . . all adding up to a vocation in learning.

The arrival of their class rings came within a short time after the beginning of school. Busily planning and preparing, they lived up to the Junior tradition of winning the first place award for the most beautifully decorated car in the Homecoming parade. The Juniors, to make money for their future activities, held the annual Christmas tree sales.

In looking back at their accomplishments, they take note of their shortcomings to help guide them in the future. Next fall will be the last lap of the mile for them as a class; they look forward to it with joyful anticipation and excited expectation as every class before them.

The First Year Upperclass Priority

"Thank goodness we're not little Freshmen anymore!" These were the sentiments echoed by the class of 1966 as they became the new Sophomores. They proudly wore their new black, white, and scarlet sweaters as their new status symbols. Not to be outdone by anyone, they worked long hours in preparation for the Homecoming parade. Their reward was a second place for a beautifully decorated car. Making it all the more beautiful was their captivating princess, Patsy Porter. Class parties were on their busy schedule too. All together they have enjoyed a wonderful year and are anticipating the experience of being upperclassmen.

A Fresh Start on an Exciting Road

Alexandria-Monroe's 188 new Freshmen started an entirely new life as they looked forward with anticipation and fright to their first year at Alexandria-Monroe. However, they soon found there were many extracurricula activities to help them feel more a part of the school. Eagerness in becoming a part of the student body was further satisfied by the excellent leadership of their class officers.

Homecoming was a new experience for most of the Freshmen and their class was well represented at the game with a beautiful car and princess. In the Spring, they selected their class sweaters and anxiously awaited their arrival next fall.

With the close of the year at Alexandria-Monroe the Freshmen can look back at all the new friends, good times, and knowledge gained. They can also look forward to the next three years of many more gratifying experiences.

Here's something you should look into RESEARCH. Scientific research. There has never been a time when man has progressed so rapidly from the fruits of scientific research. Never before have good researchers been more in demand.

Here at Delco-Remy a few decades ago, research was concerned with developing better electrical systems for the automotive industry. Later we expanded our activities to include power and control requirements of boats and aircraft. Today our research projects include devices and systems for electrical power in outer space.

To help meet the increasing demand for better electrical systems, we have just completed a new ultra-modern research and engineering center in Anderson, Indiana. It has been carefully designed to provide the most agreeable environment possible for imaginative research. But ideal facilities are of no consequence unless they are utilized by creative, imaginative researchers.

If you have a young inquiring mind, think about and prepare for a future in scientific research. It's a space age career where the sky is not the limit.

. . . and thus we end another day.

This book is a book of memories. Its contents are a record of all that was memorable about the 1963-64 school year at Alexandria-Monroe High School. It is a chapter of your life. For some it is the final chapter; for others more chapters wait to be added. The year is gone, but much of it is still within the students. And the year is here on these pages—remaining forever to augment memories against the weight of time.

In planning this yearbook we have tried to encompass the things we want to remember 50 years from now. This would not have been possible without the cooperation of Mr. David Steele for the photography and Mr. Phil Byers, representative of the Paragon Press Inc. To these people and all who are not mentioned we would like to extend our sincere thanks.
